

ITALY TURNS BOMBERS ON GREEK CITIES

DRAFT "MASTER LISTS" REACH LOCAL BOARDS

Work Preliminary To Fixing Order Numbers Here Gets Under Way.

National "master lists" of order numbers drawn in the Washington lottery Tuesday were received today by Marion county boards, clearing the way for assigning of local numbers for their 5,000-odd registrants.

Board 1 (Wards 1, 2 and 3) and Board 3 (rural) went to work immediately today, scratching from their lists numbers that are beyond their registration total.

Board 2 (Wards 4, 5 and 6) is expected to get at the task until Monday.

Some time next week the boards are expected to have their local order numbers assigned, listed on their registration cards, posted on bulletin boards and mailed out individually to the registrants.

Of course there may be some which might hold up the proceedings but right now it is expected that every registrant will be mailed his serial number and order number late next week or early the following week.

As soon as order numbers have been assigned, men with the serial numbers (1, 2, 3, 4, 5 etc. etc.) will begin receiving their eight-page questionnaires.

Help In Readiness
The Associated Press reported today a veritable army of judges and lawyers was ready today to help with the answering of draft questionnaires preparatory to the actual selection of men for a year's compulsory military training.

Clarence A. Dykstra, selective service director, reminding registrants who receive questionnaires from their local boards that they are required to answer and return them in five days, urged them to make use of advisory boards set up for the purpose. It was not clear.

The boards usually are composed of three lawyers, including judges of county and city courts. Dykstra said, and have been afforded every facility to assist the registrants. Officials said the number of advisory boards, which are appointed by state governors, was not immediately available.

On County Boards
Marion county's three advisory boards contain three men each, one lawyer and two non-lawyers. The boards are:

District 1 (Wards 1, 2 and 3)—Howard F. Guthrie, attorney, of 1122 East Center street; offices on second floor of the National City Bank. William E. Lawler, of 287 Vernon Heights boulevard, insurance business, offices at 109 North Main street. W. Kenneth Dehn, of 278 South High street, Marion County bank assistant cashier.

District 2 (Wards 4, 5 and 6)—Paul Bachman, of 607 King avenue, National City Bank assistant cashier, Harry L. Dowler, of 181 South Greenwood street, attorney, offices in Citizens building on West Center street. J. W. Llewellyn, of 212 St. James street, insurance business, offices at 1144 South Main street.

District 3 (rural area of county)—Harry W. Hoch of Dunbar Pike, Pleasant township, farmer, Francis B. Huber of 723 Mt. Vernon avenue, assistant cashier at Fidelity Banking Co., Grant E. Mosser Jr. of 527 East Church street, attorney, offices at 133 1/2 East Center street.

Issuance of the eight-page questionnaires, containing about 50 questions, took under way in many localities today, Dykstra said. They will be sent first to the men whose serial numbers were drawn earliest in the competition lottery Tuesday.

Draft officials said that men whose numbers were not drawn in the first 1,500 probably would not get questionnaires very soon because sufficient fit and eligible men are expected to be obtained from those in the group below that figure.

Local boards have been advised against sending out more than 10 questionnaires a day in order to create congestion in the task of classifying the registrants as they come in.

Draft officials here issued a

New Deal Spreads Class Hatred, Willkie Charges; Roosevelt in Cleveland

Great Ovation Planned Tonight for Final Trip Into Ohio.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Nov. 2.—Into this industrial city with its covered labor vote President Roosevelt comes today for the last major address of his third term campaign.

Democratic leaders said they expected "hundreds of thousands" to attempt to get into public auditorium where the President is scheduled to speak between 9 and 10 p. m. over a nationwide radio hookup.

Ray T. Miller, Cuyahoga county Democratic chairman, predicted the candidate would receive the greatest welcome ever accorded a visitor, and saw in his visit a means of clinching Ohio's 26 electoral votes.

The President's planned appearance set secret service men and city police and fire officials to work on elaborate plans for his protection. More than 1,000 police and firemen will guard him throughout his stay, Safety Director Elliot Ness announced.

Precaution led secret service men to rule out plans for a brief speech on the mall, adjoining the auditorium, following the main address.

To Arrive at 7:15 P. M.
The President's train is scheduled to arrive from Buffalo at 7:15 p. m. Remaining on the train for dinner, he is expected to start for the auditorium by automobile at 8:30 p. m. and to leave the city at 10:30 p. m.

Former Gov. Davey, candidate for a third term, and John McSweeney, Democratic nominee for senator, will address the rally before the President speaks.

HEAVY TUESDAY VOTE FORECAST

Election Officials Voice Plea for Early Balloting; Campaign Near End.

"Vote early" was the plea today of Marion county election officials as they made last-minute plans to handle what they expect to be a record-breaking vote of around 22,000 in Tuesday's election.

All persons who can possibly get to the polls early in the day are requested to do so, not only because they may avoid a rush later on but because they will make it easier for other people who are able to vote only at certain times.

Those who work undoubtedly will flock to the polls around the noon hour and in the late afternoon and evening.

Voting Schedule
The polls will open at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday and close at 6:30 p. m. throughout the county. There will be the usual 57 voting places in the county, 30 in the city and 27 in the rural areas.

Election officials yesterday afternoon were sorting out their supplies for each precinct. They are preparing to call for rural precincts at the election board, Monday afternoon between 2 and 4 p. m. and the city precinct judges will come after theirs.

The size of the vote here will, of course, depend to a considerable extent on the weather. If it rains the total may drop down to somewhere around "normal." If the weather is good, it may draw the voters to the polls.

Previous high vote here was 21,604 in the presidential election of 1936.

Campaign Nearly Ended
The campaign, for the most part, will wind up tonight as far as rallies are concerned. Frederick C. Smith of Marion, Republican candidate for congress, will speak with C. C. Crabbe of Columbus, former attorney general, at Caledonia's town hall, while his Democratic opponent, Kenneth M. Petri of Galion, will give an address from the Marion courthouse steps. Both are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock tonight.

The local candidates, who have been more or less overshadowed by the presidential standard-bearers, will continue their usual campaign activities right up to election day.

G. O. P. Nominee Says President Follows Strategy of Dictators.

By The Associated Press
ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN IN NEW JERSEY, Nov. 2.—Wendell L. Willkie declared today that President Roosevelt's Brooklyn speech was designed to "stir up class hatred and divide our people," an aim described as "the tactics of Lenin, the strategy of Hitler and the preaching of Trotsky."

The Republican presidential nominee, resting before his final campaign appearance tonight at Madison Square Garden, New York, issued a statement calling Mr. Roosevelt's address his "fourth defense speech—defense of his own administration."

Saying his opponent "complains that the Republican ticket has the support of many different elements of our population," Willkie continued:

"The answer to that is obvious. It is because our party is today the only one which offers unity to the country."

Replies to Attack
"In a desperate effort to block this movement of unity, the third term candidate stooped to the use of an alleged quotation which, if made, was discreditable. This quotation is supposed to have come from some one in Philadelphia having no connection with the national Republican ticket."

Mr. Roosevelt, in his Brooklyn speech, said "a prominent leader of the Philadelphia bar" had been quoted in the New York Times as saying the President's only supporters "are paupers, those who earn less than $1,200 a year and aren't worth that, and the Roosevelt family."

"This all too prevailing Republican sentiment" was described by the president as "a direct, vicious appeal to class hatred, to class contempt."

"I could as well condemn the whole New Deal party for the irresponsible act of his own secretary in kicking in the stomach a Negro policeman who was only doing his duty," Willkie said. "I utterly condemn the alleged utterance of that Philadelphia lawyer, just as the third term candidate should condemn the act of his secretary."

His Aircraft Abuses
Just before Mr. Roosevelt went on the air, Willkie broadcast from his private car a talk contending that "neglect and abuse" of the aviation industry by the New Deal would prevent American factories from producing 50,000 planes annually "for a period of years."

Similarly, he contended, it will take years to fill orders for British planes in the United States. "We must arm Britain with planes, not disarm her with political speeches," he said.

In his statement today, the Republican nominee said Mr. Roosevelt "attempted to defend his

"GET OUT THE VOTE" DRIVE IN FULL SWING

The big red, white and blue banner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, "get out the vote" campaign is now in place across Main street at the public square, urging citizens to go to the polls Tuesday.

"Vote" (in red letters) "Vote As You Please, But Vote (blue letters)" says the banner.

Signs were also to go up today on city buses and letters have gone out to ministers and various organizations calling attention to the campaign.

Activities of the committee were discussed last night when directors of the Junior Chamber met at the Y. M. C. A.

Richard A. Denman, president, announced there will be a state board meeting at Fort Hayes hotel in Columbus Sunday with Clara Adams, president of the Ohio State Life Insurance Co., as speaker.

It was also announced the national Jaycee organization has decided to suspend dues of members who are conscripted. One of the Marion Jaycees, Charles Caprino, is now serving with Marion's erstwhile National Guardsmen in Mississippi.

The entire Jaycee organization will meet next Thursday at a time and place to be announced later.

ITALY IN 2-WAY DRIVE AGAINST GREECE

Italian troops driving into Greece from Albanian frontier (1) have launched two attacks against defending Greek mountain troops. Principal attack, starting from Koritza, apparently is aimed at Greek positions in ancient Ploeria Pass at the northern end of the Greek-Albanian frontier. This drive, according to Belgrade sources, apparently has as its immediate objective the Greek city of Florina, capture of which would open way to Salonika. The secondary drive is aimed at Janina, further to the south in the border area. Rome sources claimed that Italian troops had reached the crossroad point of Kallabaki, northwest of Janina. Belgrade also reported that the water approaches to Salonika had been mined (2) by British vessels and that a steady stream of British supply ships and transports were being convoyed across the Mediterranean.

The 3-Mill School Levy

Once every five years it becomes necessary for Marion voters to authorize renewal of a three-mill levy for school operating funds and always this has been done with a large margin of votes to spare. We believe it is a certainty that the result will be the same in next Tuesday's balloting, for voters are fully aware that the revenue from this levy is absolutely essential for unimpaired maintenance of public education in Marion.

The levy yields a substantial percentage of the money used to meet ordinary operating costs of the schools on the present standards and consequently a drastic curtailment of service would be required should that part of the income be shut off. One of the probable steps would be a shortening of the school year, a condition certain to be little short of disastrous for the community and the welfare of its boys and girls.

But we know there is no reason for worry or concern over any likelihood of such grave problems confronting Marion. We feel sure that people of the community understand the vital importance of this levy and will vote accordingly when they go to the polls next Tuesday.

Remember: this is not a new levy and consequently will not increase the tax rate. It is a part of the present rate and has been in effect approximately 20 years. When we vote for it we will merely be voting to continue providing, without additional cost, funds to preserve the efficiency and service of the schools and to assure our sons and daughters uninterrupted training and instruction.

Plans Set for Tomorrow's Scout Pilgrimage to Harding Memorial

Program Will Start with Parade at 2:30, To Be Followed by Services at Tomb.

Plans were completed today for the ninth annual Boy Scout and Girl Scout pilgrimage to the Harding Memorial tomorrow in observance of the 75th anniversary of the birth of President Harding.

Barring unfavorable weather conditions, scout leaders are anticipating the largest pilgrimage since the annual tribute was inaugurated. Some 800 scouts from throughout the state are expected and adults probably will swell the crowd to several thousand, those in charge of arrangements believe.

Although the Harding anniversary is today, Nov. 2, it is the custom to hold the pilgrimage on the Sunday nearest the birth date.

The pilgrimage will start at 2:30 p. m. with a parade from Central Junior High school to the Harding Memorial and will be climaxed with a public patriotic service and wreath-laying ceremony at the Memorial. The parade will form at Central school, continue east on Center street to Main street and south on Main street and Delaware avenue to the Memorial. Col. L. E. Andrews will serve as grand marshal.

In case of inclement weather the public service will be held in The Star auditorium.

Delegation Expected
Since the pilgrimage is a custom first started by the Boy Scouts, members of that organization are expected from throughout the state, including large delegations from Springfield, Columbus, Mansfield, Sandusky, Lima and Toledo. Invitations have been extended to Girl Scouts in several nearby communities.

The principal speaker for the program will be Earl F. Morris, youthful Columbus attorney and civic leader. He will talk on "Youth and National Defense."

GERMAN-BORN SCIENTIST ON PROGRAM HERE

Dr. Karo Voices Thanks to "Kindest Land" in Talk to Classical Conference.

A world renowned German-born archaeologist, Dr. George Karo of Oberlin college, has "the profoundest gratitude for this kindest land I have ever known," he said last night at Hotel Harding when he appeared as guest lecturer at the annual dinner meeting of the Ohio Classical conference which this morning closed its nineteenth annual convention by electing officers at Central Junior High school.

Dr. Karo has been in this country 13 months and already has taken out his first citizenship papers, he said after the lecture. Last year he was visiting professor of archaeology at the University of Cincinnati and this year he is at Oberlin college. He was for many years director of the German Archaeological Institute in Athens, Greece, and formerly was a professor at the University of Halle in Halle, Germany.

Officers Elected
Miss Dorothy M. Seeger of Rayten High school in Youngstown was elected president of the conference, which is composed of teachers of Latin and Greek in Ohio's public and parochial high schools and colleges.

Other officers elected were: Prof. J. B. Titchener of Ohio State university, first vice president; Rev. Father Plump of Pontiac, Ill., second vice president; Prof. J. N. Hough of Ohio State university, secretary-treasurer; Miss Ruth Dunham of Mansfield was named chairman of county and city groups.

The members voted to hold the 1941 conference in Cleveland next October. More than 100 members registered for the meeting here.

Illustrations Shown
Dr. Karo's lecture last night on "Roman, Hellenistic and Byzantine Art" was illustrated with 30 slides of reliefs tracing the development of Roman art from 167 B. C. to the early Fourth century A. D. The reliefs included were those of Alexander, Augustus, Flavian, Trajan, Hadrian, Marcus Aurelius and Constantine.

Although ancient Greek art is superior to Roman and "has a message for us which is eternal in its surpassing excellence," the Roman art has an individual quality, Dr. Karo told his audience, and is important in the study of ancient art. He termed Roman art "powerful, sturdy... developed along practical lines."

That so many examples of ancient Roman art have been preserved seems to be "the hand of God," the archaeologist said, referring to them as an "inestimable heritage."

Welcome by Holt
Dr. Rodney P. Robinson of the University of Cincinnati, president of the conference, presided as toastmaster and in introducing Supt. E. E. Holt, who gave the welcome, he spoke of the "very splendid" welcome Marion had given the conference and praised the work of Miss Mabel Turney, local chairman of arrangements, and her committee.

"You do honor to our city and our schools when you come to us because of the inspiration you give not only to our teachers of the classics but to our school system and citizens of the community," Superintendent Holt said in his welcome. "Over a period of years I have watched your work from a distance through contact with teachers, who have been attending

Turkey Reaffirms British Alliance in Time of Stress

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The guarded statement of Turkey's war position by her president, General Ismet Inonu, yesterday leaves considerable to the imagination but of one significant point there can be no doubt—he reaffirmed the Anglo-Turkish alliance despite the axis threat to the Near East, and Russia's non-committal attitude.

The only hint in that gleam for Nazism would seem to be that there is no risk of the Turks moving with great caution, the fact that an elephant treads softly, however, doesn't mean that he lacks determination or strength.

It is a characteristic of the oriental mind that it conceals more than it reveals. Still, on the whole Turkey's famous warlike statesman gave us a fair picture of the situation—if we read between the lines a bit. Without attaching responsibility to the general for the conclusions, I should say that the position boils down to this:

Turkey is continuing her heavily armed attitude of watchful waiting. She is prepared to fight if the drop of the hat is attacked, and might be expected to do the same if her interests were gravely threatened.

To a large extent Turkey must be guided by the wishes of Stalin of Moscow, who has his boot firmly inserted in the Turkish doorway.

The Muscovite sphinx, whose support is being sought by both Germany and Britain, is smart enough not to rush in where devils fear to tread, and is playing both ends against the middle until he figures out the best course. Naturally he doesn't want the Turkish building a bonfire on his front doorstep.

So far as concerns the Fascist assault on Greece, Turkey is keeping hands off although remaining in consultation with both Britain and Athens. The Greeks themselves have advised Inonu that without Turkish aid at present, thereby localizing the new war.

Meanwhile Ankara is keeping an eagle-eye on Bulgaria, which wants a corridor through Greek Thrace to the Aegean sea. Should the Bulgarians make a move to seize this, the Turks presumably would intervene to help Greece.

TEACHERS BACK OHIO SALES TAX

Oppose Move To Eliminate Levy as Proposed by Martin L. Davey.

By The Associated Press
Ohio school teachers in scattered meetings throughout the state, took action today to prevent the elimination of the state sales tax and protested a proposal to include teachers in the federal social security program.

Former Gov. Davey, seeking reelection on the Democratic ticket, has promised to substitute the sales tax with other revenue sources.

Teachers in the northeastern and southeastern Ohio districts opposed the abandonment of the sales tax for fear that the state school foundation program would be impaired.

At Columbus the Central Ohio Teachers association drew up a resolution opposing a bill now pending in the United States senate, which would force them to surrender the benefits of the Ohio state teachers' retirement system for coverage under the social security act.

Central Group Elected
The central Ohio group named W. A. Driscoll of Dayton, superintendent of Montgomery county schools, president; succeeding Kenneth West of Mount Vernon, William Weller, principal of Fulton High school, Springfield, was named a member of the executive committee.

At Athens, the southeastern Ohio Education association condemned in a resolution "any proposal to abolish the sales tax or any other tax necessary to carry out provisions of the school foundation law."

The 3,000 teachers named C. W. Mallett of McConnelsville, president; John A. Miller of Ironton, vice president; and George Carr of Logan, secretary-treasurer. Teachers of the Northeastern Ohio association, meeting at Cleveland, also adopted a resolution condemning proposals to divert sales or other taxes supporting the school foundation program unless other sources of income are provided.

Favor State Board
The 17,000 members reaffirmed their support of proposals for creation of a "non-partisan state board of education," and recommended that the Ohio Education

TOLL OF DEAD MOUNTS AFTER AIR ATTACKS

Greek Land Forces Report Smashing Bayonet Drive Against Invaders.

By The Associated Press
The Italian air force resumed its attacks against Greece today, bombing Corfu island, and the port of Patras, where about 10 casualties were caused, reports from Athens said.

About 30 bombs were dropped in the latest attack on Patras. In another air directed against Perama, on the island of Mytilene near the Turkish coast, all bombs were reported to have missed their targets.

Athens also had an air raid alarm of 20 minutes, but its watchers sighted no planes.

These attacks followed widespread raids in which the government said nearly 300 were killed and wounded yesterday.

The strategic city of Salonika was reported hardest hit in the sudden burst of aerial warfare, with 50 killed and 84 injured in four raids yesterday. The government said "generally, no military target was hit" and charged that "all the raids were directed against civilians."

Salonica Bombed
The bombing of Salonika, upon which Italy yesterday centered her aerial offensive, was carried out by the famed Desperate squadron which was led by Portuguese Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Ethiopia, the official news agency, Stenat said today.

Count Ciano himself previously has been reported preparing to go to Albania, whence the Italian drive in Greece is being directed. Berlin dispatches said, however, that advances from Rome indicated he may be planning a hunting trip to Germany.

Over the Epirus district in the northwest the Italians dropped pamphlets declaring the invaders had "good dispositions" toward the Greeks and would respect their women, traditions and customs.

The tiny Greek air force pitched in to aid the nation's hard-fighting ground forces, bombing and strafing Fascist troops wherever they could find them in the wild, mountainous area along the Greek-Albanian border.

Charges with Bayonets
Fierce Greek bayonet charges were reported today to have cut a wedge into Albanian on the upper wing of the frontier fighting front, south as deep as the distance the Italians claim to have advanced on the lower flank in almost a week of attack.

The British exchange telephone agency reported from Athens that the Greek charges carried the modern phalanxes from the mountainous homeland of Alexander the Great to heights dominating Koritza, ten miles across the Albanian border.

Through Koritza passes the important south Albanian highway, one of the few improved supply routes to the frontier along which the Fascist legions launched their outward drive toward the north Aegean port of Salonika.

The Italians claimed their greatest gain on the southern flank; which they said reached the vicinity of Ioannina (Janina), through which runs an improved road to Athens.

The Greeks said their mountain-trained troops have hurled the invaders back almost to the Albanian frontier in this section.

Bombing Hit Hard
"Attacking in waves from bases in Albania and the Dodecanese islands, Italian bombers hit heavily at principal Greek cities, and ports. The Greek ministry of home security announced that 90 civilians were killed and 209 injured yesterday in attacks on 13 cities. These included Salonika, Athens, great port of Piraeus, cities on the island of Crete, and railroad towns on the troop and supply line to northern Greece."

London Says Nazi Attacks Weakening

Royal strife and impetuosity. Those whose birthday it is may have a promising and profitable year, with ambitious objectives under expansive influence, despite static, tricky or dishonest situations to dispose of. This threatens from high places, although generally results and cooperation may come from influential sources. Nothing Justifies Third Term, Head of Insurance Co. Tells Audience Here

Concentration of Power Assailed by Claris Adams in Meeting Sponsored by Willkie Club.

Speaking at a rally sponsored by the Marion County Willkie-for-President club at Central Junior High school last night, Claris Adams of Columbus, president of the Ohio State Life Insurance Co., declared there is no national emergency which would justify a third term for President Roosevelt and warned that a third term would set a dangerous precedent for future presidents.

Mr. Adams attacked many of the policies of the New Deal and expressed the opinion that Wendell L. Willkie "can and will lead us back to the American way of living."

"For more than seven years, Franklin D. Roosevelt has been the government of the United States," he declared. "We have such concentration of power in the hands of an individual as never existed before in the history of any free nation save in the dying days of some decadent republic. One by one precedents have been shattered, traditions leveled, safeguards swept away. Institutions designed to protect our liberties still free in form are in fact no longer free. As truly as in the historic days of the Civil war we are engaged in a great struggle to determine whether government of the people, by the people and for the people can long endure. In Lincoln's day the question was 'Shall America remain a nation?' In our day the question is 'Shall the nation remain America?' It will be Wendell Willkie as President of the United States."

Same Pattern

Mr. Adams asserted that democracy is on the defensive the world around, that the New Deal is not new in history or in European nations but is new only in United States where, he said democracy flourished under regimes of economy and according to traditions handed down by our ancestors. He likened the New Deal to dictatorships in Europe, saying, "They all follow the same pattern, perpetual emotion, perpetual emergency, perpetuation of power—an indispensable man."

Explaining how a third term not only would break an American tradition but might also set a dangerous precedent, Mr. Adams

ACCIDENT AT CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE, Nov. 2.—Sam Mellick suffered an injury to his nose when his car and one driven by F. A. Roberts collided at the intersection of Pearl and Main streets this morning.

Referring to the international situation, the speaker said he had "high hopes that there will be no war if there is no Roosevelt." "Mr. Roosevelt," he went on to say, "is pledged to peace but we have had unpleasant experiences with Mr. Roosevelt's platform promises."

He charged that President Roosevelt has made the nation "soft" with his spending program and experimentation and that Mr. Willkie, if elected, "will make it strong."

Declaring that the voters of a nation have a "rendezvous with destiny" at next Tuesday's election, Mr. Adams predicted a victory for Willkie and expressed the opinion that his election will be followed by a return to American principles.

"Wendell Willkie knows that his first job as President is to see that there are enough jobs to go around and he accepts that responsibility," Mr. Adams concluded. "He knows that the only path to preparedness and prosperity is production and that production takes team work between capital and labor all pulling together."

Mr. Adams was introduced by Walter D. Moore, president of the Marion County Willkie-for-President club, who presided at the meeting.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

CHAPTER 33
Struggle By Night

At five o'clock the boy returned with the extra horses. Temu paid for them and for the hospitality they had received, and shortly afterwards, led the way across the snow-clad plain under a threatening sky.

"We'll save time by crossing the mountain here," he said.

"Do you know where we are?" Lynn asked, gratefully tucking her hands in the long sleeves of her Mongol coat and letting her pony have his head. The horses kept side by side at a steady pace.

"We're directly east of the border town of Dorchi."

She looked at him curiously. "Do you realize that when we arrived there, we'll probably find that Dick and the Duke of Secho have taken over the government of Shani Lun?"

"That's on the knees of the gods," he said shortly and urged his horse ahead. He did not seem to want to talk about it.

They began a climb through a rocky gorge that looked like the dumping ground the contractors had used when they were finishing the mountain peaks for the Creator. The trail wound interminably hour after hour through the waste. They stopped a few minutes at noon for a bowl of not tea and then pressed on into a rough plateau, thinly covered with snow in the places where dry grass lay abundantly around the rocky outcrops.

"Temu saw that Lynn was becoming tired and cold. 'We'll soon reach a stone hut,' he promised. 'Can't we sleep out?' she asked, drowsy and a bit breathless from the high altitude.

"Too cold with snow on the ground," he urged the horse forward at a faster pace, crossed another divide, and followed a stream around a mountain peak to an alpine valley where the hut with a few stone cattlepens stood on a shelf above a perpendicular canyon wall. Tethered near the hut were three saddle horses.

"Someone else is here tonight," he said in a troubled voice. "I don't like it."

"Why?" asked Lynn, halting her horse beside him.

"The place has a reputation of being a robbers' rendezvous."

He sat thinking a moment before dismounting. "Stay here," he said and disappeared into the hut and came back with a small package. "We'll sleep here. Keep your eyes open. You don't feel any worse than that had been searching in the dark. A man half groaned, half screamed. A bullet from one of his comrades rang not far above Temu's head.

He snatched the electric torch and turned it on. Never having seen such a light before, the two on the opposite side of the fire dropped their weapons and fell back, their hands in the air.

"Hold the light and keep them covered with your gun," Temu commanded Lynn. He had glimpsed the giant whose arm he had twisted preparing to come after him, a knife in his hands.

Obediently, Lynn was on her feet ready for action. One of the pair opposite started to lower his hands. She sent a bullet into the ground at his feet. It was all the warning they needed.

From the corner of her eye she watched Temu's struggle, his skill and agility matched by the other's maniacal strength and size. Temu managed to get the knife flipped away but could not break the fellow's hold on himself. They had gone to the ground almost immediately, Temu fighting for his life, the other fighting to kill.

Quickly, Temu managed to get on top and clutch the man's neck, ram his thumb joints violently into the windpipe and jerk until the fellow's grip on him relaxed and the death gurgle had ceased.

Then he rose panting. "On your guard still, Lynn!" He went to the door and cut strips of hide from the camelskin that hung across the opening. With this he bound the other men hand and foot.

"Now," he said, coming back to Lynn and taking the gun and the flashlight from her hands, "now your job is done. Are you going to faint?"

The question was just what she needed. It jolted her. "No," she replied, "I'm not going to faint. Is the man dead?"

"Quite dead, poor fellow."

"Would it help any to kill the other two?"

He gave a quick, surprised laugh that eased the tension. "Not at all, Lynn, dear. They can free themselves after we are gone. We must brew tea and get on our way." He sat about enlivening the fire and brought in snow to melt.

"Can't we go at once?" she asked, crouching down near him.

"It's best to eat first. Take the grain bag and go feed the horses," she said as he bade her and then washed her hands and face in the snow.

Suddenly he made a spring and gave a twist to the stealthy arm that the dead man had been taken to a corner and decently covered with his sheepskins. His friends lay trussed like cattle.

"Will they bury him?" she asked.

"That's not the way Mongols usually do," Temu looked at her keenly.

He caught her fingers and drew her down near the fire and gave her a bowl of tea.

Danger Ahead

"More snow fell last night," she said. "The horses carry white roofs on their backs."

"That day they crossed another bleak plateau and dropped over another divide, striking the trail that would take them down to the border town."

"Shall we reach the town tonight?" she asked.

"I don't know," Temu replied, looking anxiously at his horses' hoofs and ankles. "This nag is going lame on me. I've an idea I'd better walk him the rest of the way."

She said, "If the revolutionists have taken the country it will not be safe for you to enter Dorchi."

"Don't I know it, Lynn?"

"What?" she asked diffidently, "what will you do if such is the case?"

"Let's not face it now."

"Perhaps—perhaps you and I could work out something together."

"I don't think so, Lynn." He refused to talk about it. "We know we have the present to tonight. Let's play. Dine with me tonight in Peiping."

"Make it San Francisco," she suggested, entering the game.

"Not so good," he objected. "Your friends would take you away from me."

She looked at him remembering his fine appearance in army uniform. "They'd probably take you away from me. We'll make it Peiping."

"We'll take a table in an alcove and I shall forget the Prince and make love to you."

"Then I must look very beautiful. It would be fun, Temu, to make you lose your head."

"You don't know whether it would or not."

She wished he wouldn't look at her so steadily. She lowered her head.

"Wear white with blue violets to match your eyes," he told her.

"There's a soft, white velvet dress I brought from San Francisco."

"Tell me about it."

Her eyes became starry. "It has a train, and not too much above the waist and not too little. Really, Temu, I hardly know myself if I look like a dream."

"I imagine you do, Tara Lynn. I've seen pictures of you in almost everything, in cap and gown, in tennis dress, in bathing suits."

She looked startled. "Did Dick show around all those silly snapshots I sent him?"

"He gave them to the Princess Mother."

"She must have been shocked, considering how thoroughly the Chinese cover themselves."

"So was the Prince—pleasantly shocked. He has built you a swimming pool in the palace grounds."

Angry color mantled Lynn's face. "I despise a man who's so sure of himself. Why are you content to be a slave to such a person?"

CONGRESSMAN SMITH IS A DISAPPOINTMENT TO THE HOME-LOVING PATRIOTIC AMERICAN CITIZENS OF THE EIGHTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

FOLLOWING IS TAKEN FROM CONGRESSMAN SMITH'S RECORD IN THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

January 30, 1939—Smith voted AGAINST authorization of printing additional reports of the Dies Un-American Activities Committee. (Congressional Record, Page 1309.)

February 9, 1939—Smith voted AGAINST a bill taxing the salaries of federal, state and municipal employees. Smith's $10,000 salary would be taxed under this law. Bill passed 270-104. Read his speech against the bill in the Congressional Record of February 15, 1939, Pages 2047 and 2048. (Congressional Record, Page 1867.)

June 10, 1939—Smith voted AGAINST the liberalization of the Social Security Act which provided for more liberal allowances to dependent mothers and children, aid to the needy blind, and for the Federal participation for the increase of old age pensions from $30 to $40 per month. Vote on this bill, 364 Yes, 2 No. SMITH WAS ONE OF ONLY TWO VOTING AGAINST IT. (Congressional Record, Page 8811.)

January 25, 1939—Smith voted against the bill to consolidate and codify the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. Vote, Yes 350, No 16. Smith being one of the 16 voting "no." (Congressional Record, Page 1311.)

March 20, 1939—Smith voted against the appropriations for the Department of Interior. Defeat of this appropriation would have meant closing of all our National Parks and Federal Public Buildings. Vote Yes 267, No 105. (Congressional Record, Page 4201.)

May 23, 1940—On the vote for the resolution making the appropriation for relief and WPA for the year ending June 30, 1941. Smith voted No. Without this appropriation no money for WPA would be available. Vote 356 Yes, 21 No, Smith being one of the 21 who voted "no." (Congressional Record, Page 10263.)

May 8, 1940—Smith voted AGAINST appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the year ending June 30, 1941. YET SMITH SAYS HE IS A FRIEND OF THE FARMER. Read his remarks against the bill in the Congressional Record of March 25, 1939, Pages 4619-20.)

January 23, 1940 and February 26, 1940—Smith on these dates made attacks on the DIES UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE for holding secret hearings and for not defining "Communism" in its report. (Congressional Record, pages 907 and 3046.)

January 23, 1940—Smith pulled his old "hobby" of attacking American money. He said on page 906 of the Congressional Record, "They (the people) will see that we are now, ourselves, on Communistic money." Smith said, "I challenge the Dies Committee to show that the irredeemable paper money the United States is now on is not, at bottom, the same as that which is used in Russia; that is not the Communistic money advocated by Karl Marx."

February 28, 1939—Smith offered an amendment to reduce the appropriation to fight venereal disease from $5,000,000 to $3,000,000. Over 7,000,000 Americans have syphilis, says General Pershing. Dr. Smith's Amendment was overwhelmingly defeated. (See his remarks in the Congressional Record of February 28, 1939, on Pages 2863-1 and 2872-3.)

WHERE WAS CONGRESSMAN SMITH ON THE FOLLOWING DATES?

April 27th; June 27th; July 10th, 12th, 18th, 20th (two times) all in 1939; January 29th, March 19th (two times), April 22nd (two times), August 5th and 27th, all in 1940. WHEN HE WAS "PAIRED" WITHOUT INDICATING his vote for or against legislation to be voted on. (See the Congressional Record on each of these dates.)

CONGRESSMAN SMITH'S NATIONAL DEFENSE RECORD

February 23, 1939—Smith voted and spoke AGAINST appropriations for the fortification of the Island of Guam. (Congressional Record, Page 2604.)

May 10, 1939—Smith voted AGAINST the appropriation for Civil Functions to be administered by the War Department. Vote, Yes 182, No 153. (Congressional Record, Page 7577.)

May 24, 1939—Smith voted AGAINST the bill "to authorize necessary facilities for the Coast Guard in the interest of the National Defense." The vote, Yes 253, No 93. (Congressional Record, Page 8549.)

May 8, 1939—Smith voted AGAINST Naval Appropriations. There were only 58 voted against it. Without it not even one pound of butter could be purchased for the Navy.

Can any one contend this was of a vote against National Defense?

March 12, 1940—Smith voted AGAINST the bill to build the Navy to treaty strength, a treaty entered into long before there was any war in Europe and which experts agreed was a minimum peace time strength of the United States Navy. THE VOTE WAS TAKEN THREE DAYS AFTER THE INVASION OF NORWAY BY HITLER. The vote was 306 Yes, 36 No. Mr. Smith was one of those voting "no." (Congressional Record, Page 1251.)

August 14, 1940—Smith voted against the bill to mobilize the National Guard and spoke against the bill on August 14, 1940. (See Congressional Record, Pages 15835-6.)

AS ELECTION TIME DRAW NEARER, CONGRESSMAN SMITH, REALIZING THE POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF HIS POSITION AGAINST NATIONAL DEFENSE MADE AN ABOUT FACE, BUT HIS RECORD REMAINS TO CONFOUND HIM.

It is now perfectly evident that our Congressman at a time when he thought it was more popular to charge the Defense Program as a needless expenditure of money, voted against it and later supported it in part, thus playing politics with the future security of the United States Government.

Voters of the Eighth Congressional District, Republican and Democrat alike want REPRESENTATION in Congress. Along with Death

Lynn followed him, stiff and white with apprehension. The inside of the small hut was bare except for the accoutrements and packs that the men had brought in. A small argol fire burned in the center of the room under a smoke hole in the sod roof. The floor was a bed of animal chips. Temu stacked the saddles and saddle bags in a pile and spread a robe for her.

The three men watched them in silent hospitality sizing them both up and their few belongings.

Later, in the blackest part of the night just before dawn, Temu's senses were brought alert by the pressure of Lynn's hand on his shoulder. He turned over and her fingers explored his face and lips. It so that she could put her lips to his ear. His arm went around her, outside the robe, drawing her close. They lay for a while in tense silence.

Suddenly he made a spring and gave a twist to the stealthy arm

Facts Not Promise

DEAR FRIENDS:

I would like to acquaint you, the Citizens and taxpayer City and County with the plain TRUTH concerning my record made while serving as your County Commissioner.

I have always tried to operate this County as economically possible, and for the best public good on the limited amount of money available, you no doubt know the revenue received to operate the County has been diminishing each year the suit of various causes, but so far the County Commission have not had to ask the taxpayers for a bond issue to operate the County Government.

The Bonded indebtedness of Marion County, when I elected, was the sum of $225,894.00, on January 1st, 1940, BONDED INDEBTEDNESS WAS $79,650.00, out of this amount of $79,650.00 ONLY THE SMALL AMOUNT OF $1,850.00 ditch and special assessments is charged against property owners, the balance of this amount is for poor relief payable only from Sales Tax and Public Utility Excise Tax, AND NOT FROM REAL ESTATE TAXES, and do not forget this, that the TAX RATE when I was elected was 3.19 mills, and in 1940 it is down to 2.90 mills.

The roads of Marion County are in better basic condition than ever before, over 300 miles of hard surfaced roads, 100 miles of Farm to Market roads have been reconditioned and bridges have been replaced or rebuilt with the help of the Federal Government, and in addition to all this 60 bridges have been rebuilt or replaced on direct order of the County Commissioners. All this was accomplished without any additional cost upon any taxpayer.

Another economy in which all taxpayers should be interested, is the Central purchasing system which went into effect March 1st, 1939. Prior to this time all supplies and equipment were purchased through competitive bidding, since March 1st, 1939, all supplies and equipment have been purchased on competitive bidding through the Office of the County Commissioner. During this period between March 1st, 1939 and October 1st, 1940, a savings of 29.19 per cent or $6,687.00 was effected. Now the important part is that this $6,687.00 was saved without ANY ADDITIONAL COST TO THE TAXPAYERS OF MARION COUNTY.

There have been statements made by certain individuals, claiming that local merchants were not able to secure any County business under this plan. That is a direct mis-statement because under this plan local merchants, who never before were able to secure any County business, have now been given an opportunity to bid on supplies and equipment, and the merchants have secured as much if not more County business than they were receiving prior to March 1st, 1939.

Also the same certain individuals who are criticizing the Central purchasing system, are saying they would hire all labor within Marion County. That is fine, but do not think for a minute that I would not have done this very thing if the authority had been in the hands of the County Commissioners, but nowhere in the Laws of the State of Ohio is there any authority vested in the County Commissioners to employ laborers. All you have to do is to read Attorney General Opinions for 1937, Volume III, Page 2250, then you will believe that what I have told you is a FACT and not a PROMISE of something that I can not do.

During the past few years the question of Relief has been a great problem. I have always believed (and still do) that the Trustees in each Township should handle their own Relief problem because they and they alone know the needs of the people in their Township, but unfortunately the State Legislature has passed laws which took this away from the Trustees and forced back into the hands of the County Commissioners, which is a step backward and is wrong in my estimation. During the period that Relief has been handled by the County Commission it has been run efficiently and economically and everybody who is eligible to receive assistance has been taken care of, as funds will permit.

I have just reviewed a few of the important things that I have been interested in while serving as one of your County Commissioners. My record should meet with the approval of every interested taxpayer.

Remember I am under no obligation to anyone, and I trust and hope if you think I have done a good job as Commissioner you will support me at the Election November 5th. Remember my slogan "A public office is a public trust."

Thanking you very much,

J. O. (Sock) WEISS

Back to Daveyism?

GOV. JOHN W. BRICKER is running for a second term on the Republican ticket. His opponent is Martin L. Davey. That makes the choice easy for all Republicans and many Democrats.

Since John Bricker became governor of Ohio in 1938, the state has been enjoying a vacation from shady business and dirty work at the crossroads. Martin L. Davey has a hunch that good government has lasted long enough and hopes voters will agree.

He promises return to the lush era of his two terms, from 1934 to 1938, when the smell hovering over Columbus and drifting about the state kept eyebrows raised in perpetual astonishment. It didn't seem possible at first that anything could be as bad as the smell indicated it must be—but it was, and voters sent Mr. Davey home to Kent.

Meanwhile, they settled down to some plain, honest government under Gov. Bricker for a change. There were no holly shows to divert their attention from a stickup at the other end of the alley. The trucking companies all had trucks, there were no holes in the governor's carpet, and money no longer was stuff to be handed out like Christmas presents in an orphan's home. After Daveyism, it was pretty tame stuff.

It made Mr. Davey restless to think of so many golden opportunities going to waste. He laid plans to do something about it—if he could. Underneath that great big persecution complex he wears so disarmingly, Mr. Davey knows a good thing when he sees it. Investigators of his administration proved that.

If Ohioans know a good thing when they see it, they'll keep Gov. Bricker in Columbus and Mr. Davey in Kent. It's a perfectly satisfactory arrangement.

The Judicial Ballot

SOME voters, apparently believing it is better not to vote at all than to vote without the guidance of a party emblem, skip the non-partisan judicial ballot. It's a dangerous practice. Good judges are the result of good selection.

As reliable a guide as a layman can obtain to the qualifications of judicial candidates is the opinion of other members of the bar. No one knows more about a lawyer than other lawyers. Fortunately, the state bar association has conducted a referendum of its membership on the qualifications of candidates for the supreme court.

In the contest between Charles B. Zimmerman, elected to the court in 1933, and Clinton D. Boyd, the referendum indicated favor for retention of Judge Zimmerman. One of these men will be elected to the court for the term beginning Jan. 1, 1941.

In the contest for the term beginning Jan. 2, 1941, the referendum showed strong favor for one of the three candidates, Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati, other members of the bar believe, is thoroughly qualified to sit on the supreme court bench. His opponents are Arthur H. Day and a candidate bearing the confusing name of "Judge" MacBride. In each man's case, belief is expressed by many lawyers that his usefulness on the bench would be threatened by other activities.

In the other supreme court contest, for an unexpired two-year term, the referendum showed favor for Edward C. Turner over Dennis F. Dunlavy. We have no hesitancy in recommending Mr. Turner's election. We agree with the results of the bar association referendum and believe voters should reelect Judge Zimmerman and elect Mr. Bettman.

For the Marion county common pleas court we are in favor of reelecting Judge Hector S. Young. His record of fair and able conduct of legal proceedings as well as his efficient management of the court's business is proof that the voters will be serving the best interests of the public by keeping him on the job.

A Vote for a Vote's Sake

REASONS for unusually heavy registration this year, indicating a record-breaking vote of 50,000,000 or better, vary widely. A non-partisan explanation might be that a vote for a vote's sake is more important in 1940 than it ever was before.

The United States is the only place in the world where the character of government still is determined by all the people. Even in Great Britain the government has solidified for prosecution of the war and recognizes no mandate other than the exigencies of its own problems. No general election will be held in the near future.

Perhaps it is because Americans have been reminded so sharply of their privilege that they are newly determined to use it in the forthcoming election. This year on election day the question isn't going to be: "Are you going to vote?" It is going to be: "Have you voted yet?" No citizen will care to have it known that a privilege which distinguishes America from societies in which desperation has blotted out all hope of self-determination meant so little that he ignored it.

News Behind the News

Reports from Abroad Indicate Long War with Both Sides Losers.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Mr. Roosevelt's scouts returning from Europe are all as gloomy as Joe Kennedy and far more precise about the reasons for their gloom than Mr. Kennedy chose to disclose on the radio.

Their unanimous verdict is that the war will probably string out for years and that both sides will lose.

The developments in the conflict so far seem to have proved a military conquest by either side is unlikely. The British are believed to be offensive for late 1941 or early 1942. Their new order for 12,000 planes from us is the only outward manifestation of that purpose, but it is confirmed by several other developments which are considered military secrets. They have no plan for invasion of the German occupied regions before then and the opportunity for launching anything more than an air blitzkrieg against German production even a year hence, is remote.

As the German chances for conquest of Britain appear to be equally obscure just now, there is no reasonable ground for expecting anything except a stalemate. This means the war will develop deeper and deeper into destruction and counter-destruction from the air. It will become solely an economic war. Increasing destruction will constantly lower the standards of living of the peoples in the opposing countries until one must drop eventually from sheer exhaustion.

Poverty, plague and human suffering can thus be the only gainers. The outcome would rest solely upon the courage of the opposing people in their ability to withstand constantly increasing privation.

That is reason enough for gloom. It prophesies destruction of the modern kind of comfort-civilization throughout Europe and possibly wherever the war scourge touches thereafter.

Long War Foreseen

Wars seldom turn out as objective reasoning requires, but the administration scouts are firm in their agreed conviction that neither side is likely to reach the point of exhaustion for at least two years and possibly five. The British are banking heavily on the expectation that the Germans cannot last through the winter of 1941-42. Heavy bombing of German cities at that time might reasonably cause collapse of German morale. At least the British believe and plan so, although the best objective opinion here casts heavy doubts on the possibility of the Germans cracking so soon.

The opinion of no one is worth much on this point. At a meeting of the Allied general staff in September, 1939, during the last World War, Pershing, Foch, Petain and Haig agreed on a plan which called for victory in August, 1919. Six weeks later the Germans surrendered.

Planes For British

Those 12,000 planes which Mr. Roosevelt offered the British were easier to promise than they will be to deliver. Apparently they were just a good round number, which the President tossed off into the campaign in a speaking spot where they fitted his political purposes.

The inside on the vital British-American plane delivery situation is simply this: The British have received about 3,000 fighting aircraft from us. They have on order, as Mr. Roosevelt disclosed, 14,000. Our rate of production is around 900 a month. Of this number we are shipping to Britain 600 or 700 a month. Defense Commissioner Knudsen believes the rate of American production will be stepped to 1,250 monthly soon after the first of the year, 1,500 by July 1 and 3,000 by April 1942. If this expectation is fully realized, deliveries to the British may develop faster than the above figures indicate, but not materially. But to squeeze in 12,000 more within any reasonable future time will require the construction of additional plant capacity which, it is understood, the President contemplates. However, a year's time is required to build a plant, so it is clear the 12,000 planes are not something that will be of immediate weight or use to the British in their present position.

They could, however, be the spearhead of the drive of the winter of 1941-42.

Today and Tomorrow

U. S. Harmony After Election Seen as More Important Than Campaign Issues.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

HAVING remained in the sidelines in this campaign, I hope I am not taking myself too seriously if in this, the last article to be published before election, I state the reasons which have led me to stand aside. They have seemed to me to be good reasons, once it was established by Mr. Willkie's nomination and acceptance speech that no fundamental question of foreign policy and national defense was at issue between the two presidential candidates.

All this does not mean that I do not have strong feelings about this election. I do have them and I have had them for the past two years. I regard this election, which has been in the making for two years, as having been an important cause in preparing and in intensifying the disaster which has befallen us and the rest of mankind. My overshadowing concern, therefore, has not been personalities, parties or campaign issues but how the election campaign, which happens to come at so unfortunate a moment in history, could be passed through without precipitating an irreparable disaster. I think it can be and I believe it will be, though only if in the heat of the partisan struggle no irreconcilable divisions are recreated in the nation.

Two years ago it was the month after Munich, and in that month it was made plain that Hitler had not been appeased and that Great Britain would prepare to resist. Unless the Allies could make themselves so strong that Hitler would not risk an encounter, or so weak that they would surrender, war was then inevitable. It was apparent, too, that the Allies could not make themselves impregnable strong unless they had access to the industrial resources of this country and promptly made plans to draw upon them; it was equally evident that, unprepared or not, great empires like the British and the French would not surrender without fighting. If there was any hope of peace during the winter of 1938-39, it lay in giving the Allies access to American industry; if that was not sufficient to have impressed the moderating influences in Germany, then it would at least have greatly improved the chances of French and British resistance on the continent of Europe.

It was the shadow of the coming election which prevented the United States from making this one great contribution within its power, to maintain peace, or, failing that, to insure the Allied resistance.

With this election impending, the politicians on both sides provided another tragic example of how democracy can be paralyzed by partisanship. They interfered with any effective move to avert the war, or to prepare this country or the Allies sufficiently against the consequences of the war. So we drifted lazily, divided, distracted, and doped with propaganda, toward the irreparable disaster of the war which began in September a year ago. Long before the primaries and the conventions and the campaigning of this summer and autumn, the election played havoc with the destiny of men.

And that is the reason why I have wanted not to contribute to the bitterness, but if I could to assuage it, and to think without partisan attachments, since I was not a voter, about the state of things when the votes will have been counted.

At Stake in Campaign

I hold that there is a paramount national interest at stake in this election which overrides all the contentions of the partisans. It is that this campaign should be so conducted and so concluded as to transcend that at once in fact and in the eyes of the world which is watching intently—the American nation will prove by its unity that the free can be strong. We cannot afford to emerge from this campaign a divided and embittered people; we cannot afford in the course of this campaign to impugn the good faith of the next President of the United States, whoever he may be, or to cast doubts upon the courage and the resolution of the nation. For if this democracy is divided and frightened, or even if those who do not know our ways think we are divided and frightened, we shall precipitate an irreparable disaster for the very long future.

The voters will make their choice: if it is Willkie, he will need not merely the nominal, but the full-blooded support of those whom he now denounces; if it is Roosevelt again, he will need somehow to gain the support of the very energetic people who now distrust him. These things have to be remembered. The safety of the people depends upon remembering them when political passions are most likely to make us forget them. For national unity is not to be achieved by pronouncing the words but by practicing it: an there can be no unity when men become so fanatical about their views that they say things which, if sincerely spoken would be unforgivable and if seriously meant, would be irreconcilable.

Watch the Indicators

How Some Early Returns May Point to Election Result.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—You can do your own "experting" on the election outcome as the returns come in the night of Nov. 5.

Unless the Willkie-Roosevelt race is unusually close, it will be easy to tell which way the wind is blowing if you know what the vote trends in certain key states and cities portend. (Perhaps you can figure out the winner by 10 p. m. central time—11 p. m. eastern, 9 p. m. mountain and 8 p. m. Pacific.)

Vote statisticians and non-partisan political observers are in general agreement as to such major indicators as the states of New York and Illinois. These two, particularly New York, may foretell the story.

South Is Clue

Virtually all the experts figure that if Roosevelt carries both those states, he's in. Many believe he can lose Illinois, along with a flock of other large northern states, and still win if New York is in the Democratic bag.

This is because Roosevelt's backlog of "sure" southern states, plus an array of states "leaning Democratic" gives him a big head-start statistically in the electoral college. However, if Willkie is running close to Roosevelt in such Democratic strongholds as New York City and Chicago (Cook county), G. O. P. chances of corraling New York and Illinois will be very favorable. And Republican prospects for a national triumph will be excellent.

F. D. R. Took Both in '36
If Roosevelt's pluralities, on the other hand, are piling up at 3-to-1 ratio in New York City and at better than 12-to-7 in Chicago as they did in 1936, then indications of his re-election will be impressive.

Four years ago New York City gave the President 2,049,000 votes and London, 665,000—a Democratic plurality of more than 1,300,000. Outside New York City the state gave London 1,514,000 votes and Roosevelt 1,251,000, a Republican lead of 263,000.

Some statisticians believe Willkie will have a fairly good chance to take New York state if he holds Roosevelt to a 3-to-2 lead in the nation's largest city. That's assuming of course that the Republicans will amass a maximum plurality upstate. Hoover won the state in 1928 when Al Smith led almost 3-to-2 in the city.

Industrial Cities Also Key
These experts, however, consider it virtually impossible for the Republicans to overcome upstate a 2-to-1 Roosevelt margin in the city. That would give F. D. R. a city plurality of some 900,000 if the total vote were the same as in 1936.

Returns indicating Willkie was making it a horse race in such industrial centers as Detroit, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, as well as running well in New York City, would make the outlook rather dismal for the New Dealer. Roosevelt's greatest strength, outside the "Solid South," is concentrated in the big cities.

Should Roosevelt show 1936 vote-getting form in the big northern towns and run neck-and-neck with Willkie in the small towns and agricultural districts, a Democratic victory would be a sure thing with a landslide, an easy possibility.

A decisive Willkie lead in a majority of the border states—Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia—would be a likely indicator of a Republican sweep. It usually takes a Republican landslide to put a majority of these states in the G. O. P. column.

The War a Year Ago

NOV. 2, 1939

By The United Press
The United States was charged with aiding the British and French by repeal of the arms embargo and some German newspapers said repeal of the act would "drag" the United States into the war.

The British expressed joy over the action of Congress. The act passed the lower house of Congress by a vote of 243 to 181.

German authorities warned their nationals to leave Turkey. The Air Ministry's weekly casualty list brought the Royal Air Force fatalities to 122. The Western Front was quiet.

Nine persons with the name Abijah are mentioned in the Old Testament.

"Marie Antoinette, probably. She lost her head, remember?"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Nov. 2, 1930. A delegation of Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War representing communities throughout the state visited the tomb of President Harding and held ceremonies in observance of the sixty-fifth anniversary of his birth. W. C. Thobaben of Cleveland, department commander of the organization, placed a wreath at the burial place and delivered an address.

Miss Phoebe Fogleson of Akron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fogleson of North State street, was united in marriage with Floyd Solida of Wellington. The ceremony, performed by Rev. L. A. Wood, took place at the home of the bride's parents.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Nov. 2, 1920.

Warren G. Harding was elected president of the United States, defeating James M. Cox of Dayton by the largest majority ever received by a Republican candidate for the presidency. The honor came on his 55th birthday anniversary. One of the greatest celebrations in Marion's history took place, starting as soon as early returns indicated a Harding victory and increasing in size and enthusiasm as later reports swelled his majority to huge proportions. People came from near-by communities and also from more distant points in the state to join in the jubilation. The news account reported that Marion "went mad with joy." No public comment was made by Mr. Harding until 8:45, after he had gone to his library and penciled a brief statement which included these words: "I am not exultant. It is not a personal victory. It is a renewed expression of confident Americanism and a national call to the Republican party." He gave out the information that in accordance with his previously announced intention to take a month's vacation following the election, he would leave the latter part of the week for a visit with friends in Texas. Throngs went to the Harding home to cheer the next president and give voice to their pleasure. One of the earliest delegations consisted of 40 employees of The Star, who came not only to congratulate Mr. Harding on his victory but to extend birthday felicitations. They presented him with a solid gold printer's makeup rule as a birthday gift. On one side was the inscription: "Best wishes to Senator Warren G. Harding, 1865-1920 From The Star employees," and on the reverse side were the words: "Elected President of the U. S. A. November 2, 1920." M. L. Miller, one of the printers and oldest Star employees, presented the gift and the presentation speech was given by W. C. Shoemaker. Tears coursed down Mr. Harding's face as he received the gift. In his acceptance he said, "I have been on the square with you and I want to be on the square with all the world." On behalf of women employees, Mrs. C. M. Liggett presented Mrs. Harding with floral tokens. At midnight Mr. Harding spoke from the famous front porch to a throng which filled the street. He said, "While any man may be well pleased with the great honor bestowed upon me, nothing has pleased me more than the loyalty and support of my friends in Marion." Marion county, up to that time ranked as a predominantly Democratic, gave him a majority of 3,367.

His pal for years was the Broun, but for quite a spell one of the coteries of famous coterie that included John McLean, Jimmie Stearns, Hannagan, another close man Billingsley, who owns the Star, said that Reynolds' disregard of social safety in London is positively his English friends. They should be in some of his more ticklish home battle fields.

QUENTIN REYNOLDS, general manager of the current sensation of New York and probably everywhere else, too, as it calmly narrates the story of the scenes in a semi-news short entitled "London Can Take It." The film depicts London under the bombing of the Nazis.

It reflects more than anything else yet printed or pictured the suffering and the fortitude of the civilian population of England—of the little people. But it is Reynolds' voice that produces an even greater effect than the film. He pitched. He never gets off the quip, always the good reporter, coolly scene and situation in simple, few adjectives. He attempts no further raises his voice.

It is a narrative technique to editors and familiar to newspaper new to the medium of the news. They accept vocal excitement bordering on reporting. Probably the or less natural to Quentin Reynolds heard him before in this manner.

But probably, too, he was a make American audiences feel the magnificent spirit of courage which the English are facing the first ever occurred in a civilized this he most surely succeeds. His job, an important job.

THE NATION NEEDS A CHANGE

Keep Good Government in the State of Ohio

All are familiar with Congressman Frederick C. Smith's record as Mayor of Marion. He headed the administration that put Marion back on the road to good city government. In his first term in Congress he has been guided by one single principle—"What is best for ALL of the people."

Governor John W. Bricker forgot neither his campaign pledges nor his party's platform when he became Governor. His administration, while operating the state without new or increased taxes, has made Ohio a pay-as-you-go state instead of a deficit-operated state. Again in Ohio, under John W. Bricker, public office has become a public trust.

Senator Charles McNary, son of western pioneer parents, was reared on a farm near Salem, Oregon. His Senate career has been marked by his interest in farm problems. He was co-author of the McNary-Haugen Bill to control farm surpluses. Operating "off stage" he had much to do with the defeat of the New Deal's "court packing" bill.

The life of Harold H. Burton has been a life of service to his city, his state and his country. For three consecutive terms mayor of Cleveland, Harold Burton's nationally recognized career of accomplishment gives ample assurance of his effective service for the people of Ohio when he is inducted into the United States Senate.

Marriage Meddlers

Hectic Events Pile Up at the Farmhouse, Culminating in the Arrival of Avis Arlen—Leslie's Spy?

FROM the extension wire to my father's room came a command, crisp and terse.

"Admit her, but do not let anyone else come through the gate," he said. Then I heard his foot steps on the hall floor above, and in another minute he and Philip Veritzen came down the stairs together. The face of the great theatrical magnate was a picture of bewilderment.

"What on earth?" he exclaimed, and then my father opened the door, and Avis Arlen slipped into the room.

At my first glimpse of her the fantastic suspicion which had been mine since Philip Veritzen told us his story became concrete.

She was the person whom Jack Leslie had planned to put inside the farmhouse, the person who, he had told Veritzen, was a friend whom he would recognize.

Lillian nodded a confirmation of my belief as her eyes met mine, but on Philip Veritzen's face there was an almost pathetic mixture of incredulity that the daughter of his old friends could be a sordid spy, and of conviction that, nevertheless, she had been sent by Leslie to gain a foothold in the farmhouse, and later to admit him and his gang.

Leslie's Spy?

Avis came fluttering up to me with her old saccharine fulsome, ignoring our last meeting when Miss Whitlock and I had indignantly bound and gagged her in our suite while the hotel authorities were searching for her.

We had known then that she was spying upon Mary, but we had thought it was at the behest of Philip Veritzen and connected with the production of my play. And Veritzen virtually had admitted that he had used her in the "testing" of Mary. We had not dreamed, and I knew, looking at his face, neither had Veritzen, that the girl, almost too silly to be really evil, had any connection with Jack Leslie's monstrous plot against Mary, Noel and my father.

"Oh, Mrs. Graham!" she gurgled. "I know it is terrible of me to burst in upon you at this time of night, and I know you'll never forgive poor little me for so unpardonable an intrusion, but I just had to see Uncle Phil for a few minutes. He's my employer, you know, and something—"

Another Guest

She turned away from me, and went up to the business associate of her dead father, the man, whom we knew, her widowed mother wished to marry.

"Dear Uncle Phil," she cooed. "Something terrible has happened at the office, and I thought it my duty to come and tell you. Could I see you alone, somewhere? It will only take a few minutes, and then I'll go away again."

My father broke into the conversation suavely, but with the flick of steel in his voice.

"Unfortunately, Miss Arlen," he said formally, "while we are glad to welcome you to the farmhouse for an indefinite stay, we cannot permit you to leave us. We are in a state of siege—Mr. Veritzen will explain it to you—and anyone who enters the house must

JUST THINGS

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Halloween

THEY were discussing Halloween, as Halloweeners go and were feeling dreadfully sorry for the Halloweeners of 1940. That was because they were Halloweeners of another decade. Imagine scoffed up, not having any gates to wrest from their hinges, and carry clear to the other end of town, no carts to haul up on top of box cars, now cows to lead a couple of miles into the country and send the owner's blood pressure mounting and his temper also. And if someone was having a taffy pull in the neighborhood, well, that was just too good to be true, the ruffians left no stone unturned to make the evening hideous with their pranks. But, taking them by and large, the so-called ruffians have given a pretty good account of themselves to date, and besides, Halloween like Christmas, comes but once a year.

Politics

THIS time next week it will all be over and it's the old dollar to doughnut bet that for the most part we'll all be going along in about the same old way, and there won't even be the faintest echo of the tumult and the shouting. For the winners there will be plaudits, and even if it rains and snows the sun will be shining for them, but for the losers, it will be just so much water under the bridge. There was a time when one's enemies did not let them forget. There are those who remember how the Democrats in a town a few miles away as the crowd flies, went about with racy faces for quite some days because their successful opponents dangled Bryan and Sewel in a boat labeled "Salt Creek" from the tallest tree in town. Needless to say that was one time a hurricane would have been welcome.

We Didn't Know

WITH Christmas just around the corner—well, there it is, Christmas, Christmas trees, Christmas cones, Christmas presents. And what we don't know about evergreen trees and cones is plenty. We're wised up considerably since reading a most interesting article on "Evergreen Cones" in a garden magazine. And we're asking you—did you know that—the most interesting of cone cutters are squirrels and chipmunks? And we pause here to say if anyone calls you a squirrel, don't haul off and give them a Joe Louis—it's a compliment. To go back to the trees and the cone cutters—these little four-footed fellows know just when to cut the cones. And don't think they stop at the bottom where the trees are wide, the cones scarce and there's a lot of climbing to do. If you do, well, you're wrong. They go to the top where they are most plentiful. As the cones drop to the ground other squirrels carry them away to a special hoarding place, and believe it or not they store them with the scales pointed downward to shed water.

More of County's Draft List

Another installment in The Star's list of names of Marion County men whose names were drawn in the national draft lottery at Washington Tuesday appears below. It picks up where yesterday's list left off.

The first number listed in each instance is the national lottery number—shown in the drawing at Washington. All the national lottery numbers are listed because they all apply to Marion county. This accounts for the fact that a great many national lottery numbers were skipped in the list.

After the national number in each instance appears the registrant's serial number in parenthesis. Then come the names and addresses of men with that serial number. Because Marion county has three draft boards have different totals of registered men, some of the numbers listed here affect only one man, some affect two and some affect three.

If you find your name early in the list it will mean that you will have a low order number. If your name comes following a high national lottery number, then it means you will have a high order number and may not be called for training until later.

Annual C. of C. Meeting To Take Place Monday

Plans were virtually completed today for the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Marion Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Harding Monday night at 6:30 when new officers will be announced and Ralph L. Lee of the public relations department of the General Motors Corp. will speak.

The officers—president, vice president and treasurer—will be elected at a directors' meeting at noon today in Hotel Harding. Appointment of a full-time secretary for the coming year will also be decided upon at that time and announced Monday night. Harold J. Grigsby is now president and Louis E. Michel is secretary.

Five of the directors are starting new three-year terms, having been elected in mail balloting recently.

The Monday night meeting is open to the general public and reservations may be made either at the Harding or at the Chamber of Commerce offices. About 100 reservations already have been made.

Dr. Lee, the speaker, has chosen to discuss research engineering and development, on which he is amply qualified to speak, having wide experience as an engineer, sales manager and industrial research specialist.

A native of Dayton, Mr. Lee left school at an early age to enter industry. One of his first jobs was in the engineering department of the National Cash Register Co., a position he left after eight years to join the DeLo Light Co. Later this became a part of General Motors.

Headed Sales for G. M.

After rising to the position of assistant sales manager of Frigidaire, he was transferred to Detroit where he was successively assistant director of customer research and a member of the staff of the vice president in charge of sales for General Motors, before joining the public relations department.

He has varied interests outside of business. Mr. Lee is an ordained Episcopal minister, he owns and flies an airplane and has invented several navigation instruments. He plays piano and pipe organ equally well. He even has turned out a few etchings.

In charge of the meeting Monday night will be Mr. Grigsby. There will be music for entertainment of guests.

The meeting will be out at approximately 9 o'clock, in time for the night's political broadcasts.

Community Fund's Leaders Outline Plans To Assure Success Next Year

1940 Total Set at $28,989, Still Under Goal; Vote To Publish Names in 1941.

Ways and means of assuring the success of Marion's Community Fund campaign next year were threshed out last night at a meeting of leaders at Hotel Marion.

The meeting, attended by 15 or 20 of the men and women who assisted in the 1940 drive, was presided over by a new determination to go over the top the next time, after it became almost a certainty that the 1940 campaign has fallen short of the $31,000 goal.

Probably one of the main points which will help out in 1941 was a decision to publish in the newspaper the names of all subscribers to the fund, together with the amounts they subscribe.

This policy has been followed consistently in other cities with considerable success, not only resulting in increased gifts but more of them.

Other methods proposed. Other new features were discussed, mostly centering around the machinery of the Community Fund. Ways of getting the story of the activities of the five agencies in the fund across to the public drew considerable attention.

Improvement of the method of soliciting prospects in industrial and business establishments also was deemed essential to the success of a campaign.

The 1940 campaign, although virtually completed, will be continued by various key workers, but not on any large scale.

An additional $995.90 was reported last night, bringing the total for the drive to $28,989.90—$2,010.10 short of the goal.

The previous report of $28,716 made Monday night contained several hundred dollars in pledges which had to be discounted for various reasons in the official audit. The present total of $28,989.90 is based on audited figures.

More Expected

There are still some subscriptions which will definitely come in, and possibly others which may crop up from time to time. Any one who wishes to contribute may do so by contacting the Community Fund office at 142 1/2 East Center street or calling 2327.

It is still possible to reach $30,000, J. E. Oliphant, general chairman, told his assistants last night.

Bulk of the report last night came from the industrial division, headed by Harold J. Grigsby and Carl E. Danner. They reported $744.90. Smaller sums were reported by the women's division and the commercial group.

The industrial division's report makes its total $13,315, compared with its quota of $12,800.

A careful analysis of the prospect cards will be made shortly, with a view to finding out who gave last year and didn't give this year. These persons will be contacted for subscriptions within the near future. There have been about 8,000 subscriptions to date.

The fact that the campaign has fallen short does not mean that the agencies will suffer particularly, Mr. Oliphant said. He pointed out that the cost of operating the Community Fund is small and that it will not be necessary for the agencies to cut their budgets to any great extent.

The agencies sharing in the fund are: Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts and Girl Reserves.

Questions and Answers

E. L. F.—"Do house plants take oxygen from the room? What foods contain starch that causes acid in the system? Are starches the only foods that cause poison in the system?"

Answer—Plants do not take oxygen from the air. They give oxygen to the air and take carbon dioxide out of the air. They utilize toxic animal exhalations. Animals can't live without plants, nor plants without animals. Plants supply to the air what animals need. That's why you have to have plants in a goldfish pond. No starches cause acid in the system. Starchy foods do not cause poison in the system, they create energy.

FREDERICK SMITH DENOUNCES EARL THOMAS

Representative Earl Thomas asks in his advertisements for re-election that his past record be investigated. We feel that the opinion of a fellow candidate would be of interest to the voters at this time.

(Signed) FRED F. HOCHSTETTER.

We herewith reproduce a letter from Frederick Smith to the Editor of The Star. It appeared in the Public Opinion Column as follows:

REQUEST FOR TAX CUTS. Marion, Ohio November 30, 1933

Editor Star:

In the November 21st Star, Auditor Thomas makes the startling statement that there has been no "requests" for tax reduction. The Ohio Tax Commission stated Thomas said the same thing to them. Where has Mr. Thomas been living lately that he should speak so strangely? What stronger "requests" for tax reduction could he want than the fact that only 82 per cent of the last tax assessment was collected and that the delinquency is increasing at an alarming rate; that the sheriff has already sold under the hammer this year about half a million dollars' worth of property? Did he ever hear of the strenuous efforts Chamber of Commerce and Tax association for reduced taxes? Has he read any newspaper or talked to any outside of the tax-beneficiary group at all in the last two years? I suppose if Mr. Thomas saw a house on fire, he would wait for the occupants to come out and "request" that the fire be put out before he would send in the alarm.

It is well known that the auditor has repeatedly publicly said, the total tax is not too high. He was the greatest obstacle in the courthouse in reducing the county budget in 1931.

Mr. Thomas says we received a reduction in valuation in 1931. Did he help to bring about this reduction? Ask the appraisers. The fact is his sympathies are wholly with the tax-beneficiary group and not at all with the taxpayer. Now of the Grange, Farm Bureau, he promises a reduction for next year, hoping by that time the vandals (tax-beneficiary lobbies) will be able to bludgeon the legislature into providing "other" sources of taxes than real estate so that there will be no loss to the big racket and certainly no relief to the taxpayer.

But just one thing: Mr. Thomas has at last been put on the spot. We now know that it was within his power to reduce taxes. He did not do it. Even supposing he was ignorant of "requests" and things much stronger for reduction, this by no means excuses him. He has failed in performing his public duty. Ninety-five per cent of the farmers and eighty per cent of the people outside of the tax-beneficiary group will agree to this statement.

Respectfully Yours, FREDERICK C. SMITH

PRAISE FOR LEWIS
Editor of The Star: Man can not live on bread alone. (He might have his belly filled like the slave was fed—when slaves were scarce), but chained to the oar. Initiative is a virtue of every progressive minded human. Freedom is desired and fought for by every living, moving thing; the slave slipping his chains is something to be feared.

The laboring man in this country has not yet known what slavery is although he might have felt the lash of his employer's urging. Labor leaders behind the New Deal can regiment the worker and go to sell them down the river. The New Deal's aim is to control all industry and finance. The labor leader furnishes the slave and so to speak the slave is chained to his own car. There will always be plenty of slaves in this country, in reserve, so there will be many empty bellies.

Labor leaders might scoff at laws and restrictions, so in that event there will be friction between them and the constituted authorities, and the slave in between gets the lash.

John L. Lewis may see the likelihood of government ownership or control. Germany and Russia have it and what freedom does the worker have there?

J. L. L.'s face may be working, he may be in bad with the labor leaders, but from the general American public he deserves praise for declaring a divorce from any entanglement in government ownership slave chains.

Service Stressed in Activities Of Junior Red Cross; 3,840 Active Here

Herewith is one of a series of articles covering activities of the Red Cross which will conduct a campaign for $8,175 in its annual roll call Nov. 12-18.

The theme "We Serve," motivates the activities of Marion's boys and girls in the Junior Red Cross. Last year 3,840 boys and girls in 15 elementary and junior high schools and one private kindergarten were enrolled.

Enrolling of schools for the 1940-41 year is now under way under direction of Mrs. Everett Grigsby, Junior Red Cross chairman.

At each holiday season last year the boys and girls made favors for the men in the veterans' hospital at Dayton and for those confined in Marion city and county hospitals and homes.

Variety of Activities
In addition they made 200 menu covers for sailors at sea and 30 Easter greetings in Braille which were sent to the George F. Sands School for the Blind at Cincinnati.

Helping to create world friendship, the pupils at Olney Avenue school prepared a portfolio which they sent to Alaska. Children of a chapter in Japan sent a scrapbook to the Oakland Heights school.

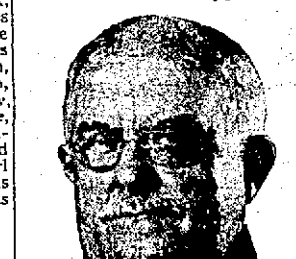

This year as well as last, the Junior Red Cross members are actively engaged in making a success of the roll call by making posters for display in the business district.

When Marion was called on to raise war relief funds, the girls of the Junior organization donated Red Cross vells and took contributions in the theaters.

Marion's members are among 8,000,000 boys and girls in the American Junior Red Cross.

Promotion of positive health, service to others and the fostering of international understanding are the three guiding principles of the young people's organization.

CANDIDATES ON RADIO IN OHIO

Bricker and Davey Get in Some Verbal Licks as Election Day Nears.

The Associated Press
Opening party nominees for election day in Ohio put in a few verbal licks last night.
Gov. Bricker, Republican, asked for reelection next year to "assure continued good government."
He said the voters must choose between the type of government that is today as compared with that of the same old gang responsible for all the amazing misdeeds of the previous campaign.
He added that "7,000 Ohioans who lost jobs last year were paid unemployment compensation per capita" than jobless in any other state.
Former Gov. Davey, Bricker's opponent, told a statewide radio audience from Cleveland that Republicanism "inspired" "great" reforms were committed during his administration but they had not pressed charges.
"Their failure to do so is the best proof in the world that every office in my administration had a clean, honest and unimpeachable record," he said.
He accused Bricker of being "strangely lacking in courage and independence" and said he was "completely under the domination of the business lobbyists and the big newspapers."

Mail Delivery in Marion Reached Its Fiftieth Anniversary Friday

One of Four Original Carriers, M. L. Martin of Summit St., Recalls Event.

Fifty years ago yesterday city delivery of mail was inaugurated in Marion.
Of the original four carriers two are still living, M. L. Martin of 215 Summit street and Bert Crow of Chicago, brother of French Crow of South Prospect street. Charles R. Clark and Harry G. Copeland are dead.
When the delivery service was started the city's population was 8,300, of which about 7,000 were served. Mr. Martin recalled yesterday. Most of those not served lived outside the mile and a half square area covered in boundary lines which extended south to the north side of Marion cemetery, east to Grand avenue, west to the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad tracks and north to Fair-ground street.
The late Schiller Fogleson was postmaster at the time the service

Covenant Sunday To Be Observed Tomorrow.

An all-day observance of Covenant Sunday will be held tomorrow at the Prospect Baptist church with representatives of the Ohio Baptist convention headquarters at Granville in charge.
The program, planned to emphasize the ideals set down in the covenant of the Baptist church, will begin with a sunrise service for young people under direction of Miss Helen Wicks, state director of religious education for the Baptist denomination. Rev. Owen M. Linsley, pastor, reported. All classes will be combined during the Sunday school hour and Rev. F. W. McDermott will speak. The morning worship service will be held at 10:30 and the sermon will be given by Dr. W. H. Bowler.

Army Has Detailed Plan for Keeping Line on Men Called into Service

Regulations Provide for Checkups Until Men Are Turned Over to Officials at Camp.

When Marion county sends its first young men to military camp in the next few weeks, there's small chance of any of them getting lost by the wayside.
At least not according to the new book of regulations received by the draft boards—"Delivery and Induction"—which prescribes what appears to be a fool-proof setup for keeping track of the men from the time they leave here until they reach army officials.
It all starts when the draft board here receives its call for so many men, gets the men all classified and ready to go.
The board then issues a call for enough men to fill the quota and tells them to report for delivery at a certain time and place in Marion.
Roll Call First
Here the board calls the roll of the men; issues warrants to leaders or assistants who will be responsible for getting themselves and the rest of the men to the army.
The board tells the leader carefully about arrangements made at the induction station (probably Fort Hayes at Columbus).
The board also orders all the men to obey their leaders and assistant leaders and tells them to report to the induction station under their leaders.
"The procedure . . . should be conducted with brief and dignified ceremony. It may be varied to include speeches by representative citizens, the presence of uniformed organizations, the playing of band music, and parades," the regulations state.
"All members of the local board and the government appeal agent should be present."
Army Checks Up
However, the army doesn't trust the leaders to get the men to them intact.
"Immediately upon the departure of the selected men, the local board shall telegraph or, if less expensive, telephone the commanding officer of the induction station."
"The number of selected men entrained;
"The designation of the local board;
"The station or terminal at which the selected men are due to arrive;
"The time of arrival."
"The Marion county men will be met at the Columbus station (if that's where they're going first) by representatives of Fort Hayes and transported to the induction station."
"The commanding officer of the induction station . . . is charged with providing food and lodging for the men after their arrival," say the rules.
If by any chance the army doesn't want you after you get there, the army must pay your way back home.
Taking of Oath
At the induction station, the men found acceptable will be inducted into the service—army, navy or marine corps—taking the oath of service.
The leaders mentioned above are chosen from the men themselves by the draft boards. They have such authority as is necessary to deliver their group to the induction station.
The leader carries with him the delivery list, the reports of physical examinations, orders to report for induction, information for the armed forces—for each man under his care.

When he reaches the induction station, he turns the records over to the commanding officer.

FOR REPUBLICANS ONLY:

First Republican: Do you believe in the National Defense Program?
Second Republican: Of course I do. The Gallup Poll shows that almost 80% of the Republicans are for the National Defense Program.
First Republican: Do you know our Congressman's record on national defense?
Second Republican: I have read something about his failure to support vital defense measures.
First Republican: He voted against the United States Naval Defense Bill on March 12, 1940.
Second Republican: And Congressman Smith was the only Congressman from Ohio who voted against the Naval Expansion Program. Just think, there are a majority of Republican Congressmen from Ohio and not a single one save Dr. Smith voted against the bill to establish the composition of the United States Navy.
Second Republican: Has Congressman Smith voted against other defense measures?
First Republican: Yes, indeed, Congressman Smith voted against appropriations for the Coast Guard, Mobilization of the National Guard, selective military service, additional locks for the Panama Canal and many others.
Second Republican: But hasn't Dr. Smith supported the Defense Program recently?
First Republican: Yes, since May 24th of this year, he has supported A PART of the Defense Program, but I believe this District should be represented by a man who will support the National Defense Program in its entirety. During the next two years we will need a man in Congress who will support national defense 100%, as Republicans have indicated they desire in the Gallup Poll.
Second Republican: Who is Dr. Smith's opponent?
First Republican: He is Kenneth M. Petri of Galion, Ohio, a veteran in legislative matters and has served six years in the Ohio Legislature. The Republican party in Crawford County was as well pleased with his record in the Legislature that they gave him his second and third terms without Republican opposition.
Second Republican: Well, that settles it for me, Petri will get my vote. A vote for Petri is a vote for real national defense.
First Republican: Yes, mine too. Petri believes the National Defense Program is the way to peace. He has made the strongest possible declaration against America's involvement in the European War.

Again Turning To My Opponent's Record—
Let us examine the record about Aid for the Aged.
An matter of fact $450,000 less in State Funds, was contributed toward Aid for the Aged in 1939 than in 1938. In spite of an increase in the number on the pension roll, which was to be expected, and additional funds should have been appropriated to meet this increase. The ripper proposition forbade this addition, in spite of past promises, therefore pensions had to be reduced.
The meaningless raising the old age pension limit to $10.00 per month was merely a subterfuge to gain the vote of old age pensioners. No appropriation was made and the law does not become effective until Jan. 1, 1941. This increase was made available by the National Congress Jan. 1, 1940. Mr. Opponent, why this delay? You promised them this increase two years ago, but when you were elected to office YOU DID NOT REMEMBER. The Old Age Pensioners are sponsoring a resolution to expedite investigations. I AM SUPPORTING THAT RESOLUTION, because it's just.
Your lack of business experience, and 20 years in public office, and on the public pay roll have dulled your sensibility to the needs of the Citizens of Marion County, therefore, THIS UNSYMPATHETIC ATTITUDE toward our problems.

Congressional Candidates Speak At Rally of Marion County Democrats

Petri and Young Assail Opponents at Schwinger's Hall; Women Serve Supper.

Democratic candidates for congress, Kenneth M. Petri of Galtion, who is seeking election as Eighth district representative, and Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, who is seeking the post of congressional-at-large, were principal speakers at a party rally last night at Schwinger's hall on North Prospect street.

An estimated 750 to 1,000 attended. The speaking program followed a supper, served cafeteria style by the women's division of the Marion County Democratic club. Dr. C. J. Altmaier introduced Mr. Young and presented the state of county candidates and Mr. Petri was introduced by Sylvester Larkin.

The legislative record of his opponent, Congressman Frederick C. Smith, was the target of an attack continued by Mr. Petri. He reviewed briefly his own career in the state legislature.

Mr. Young likewise hurled criticism at his opponents. L. L. Marshall and George Bender, asserting that "they are willing to cripple national defense in order to obstruct President Roosevelt."

"You will find," he said, "that nearly all those who are out-spoken in opposition to the third term were opposed to President Roosevelt for a first term and that they were opposed to him four years ago. When a Republican tells you he is opposed to a third term, he means he is against a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Referring to his opponent, he told his audience, "Mr. Marshall played politics with national defense, which is a national necessity, not a political issue. He voted against repeal of the arms embargo, and fortunately he was in the minority or it would be illegal for our government to provide aid to Great Britain. He voted against a 25 million dollar appropriation to enlarge TVA power to permit aluminum production although army engineers declared failure to pass this appropriation would seriously impair the airplane construction program."

SITE CHANGED FOR MODEL PLANE SHOW

Miniature Craft To Be Flown at Airport Tomorrow.

The second model airplane show to be held by the Marion County Model Airplane club Sunday will be held at the Marion airport instead of at the Fred Guthrie and Red Top farms at Big Island. It was announced today by Verlin F. Haines, president of the club. The show is being sponsored by Marion Lodge No. 32, E. P. O. Elks.

The place for holding the show was made to facilitate an hour's broadcasting of the event, over the Mansfield station, Mr. Haines said.

Between 75 and 100 models are expected to be entered in the show and awards contributed by K. M. Bower will be given to winners in the various contests.

The show will start promptly at 2 p. m. and members of the club are asked to be at the airport at 12.30. Arrangements will be made to allow spectators to be near the planes.

WAR

Nazi plane losses at 2,433 since the intensive air raids on Britain started Aug. 8 — an average of slightly more than 200 planes a week for 12 weeks.

The air ministry estimated over 6,000 German airmen have been killed or taken prisoner in that period and declared German losses in bombers and fighters were about 3 planes and 14 airmen for every British plane and man lost. British pilot losses were placed at 353.

The ministry announced now and more destructive raids on railway communications in Berlin and on oil and other industrial plants, including the Krupp munitions works in Essen.

The Nazis, aided by Italian planes, were equally busy, striking toward London today in the face of strong opposition from ground batteries and squadrons of British fighting ships. Nazi planes and long-range guns on the French coast bombarded a British convoy, apparently without much success.

A bomb struck a crowded London bus and probably killed several persons in a night raid on London, it was reported today as Britain's fighters beat off three day attacks on the capital.

word of advice to Marion county registrants in making out questionnaires.

They urged registrants, in view of the vital nature of the answers, to put everything in the questionnaire that they think the board should know to classify them.

Extreme care should be used, since the answers will be the only thing the board has to go on in determining how to classify its men. Special care should be taken if the registrant wishes to make out his questionnaire alone, without consulting his advisory board.

The registration totals in the county to date are:
Board 1—2,262; Board 2—1,340; Board 3—1,449. Grand total—5,051.

Another volunteer, who wishes to keep his identity secret for the time being, was reported today from Board 1, bringing the county's total to 14.

WALLACE COMPLETES SWING THROUGH OHIO

Assails "Dollar Diplomacy" in Southern Neighbors.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 2.—Friendship rather than "dollar diplomacy" is believed by Henry A. Wallace to be essential for Pan-American solidarity against aggressor nations.

"We can not escape war if aggressor nations should be able to get a foothold to the south of us," the Democratic vice presidential candidate told a Democratic rally here last night after a one-day 250-mile swing through eastern Ohio.

Pointing to the Panama Canal as a vital link in the United States' two-ocean naval defenses, Wallace declared that the Republican presidential candidate, Wendell L. Willkie, had "no notion of the true method of protecting Panama without war."

Wallace, bidding for Ohio's 28 electoral votes, completes his campaign trip through Pennsylvania and Delaware today.

Friendship with South America, said Wallace, "costs us something, but it costs less than war," and he added:

"That friendship calls on us to be courteous and generous, to refrain from landing marines at every dispute, to get away from dollar diplomacy and act like a nation that other countries can safely trust."

"All this Republican financiers know nothing about."

"Their idea was to lend money—even to force loans on South Americans by bribery and corruption—and then collect if necessary with the navy. What sort of a policy is that for dealing with nations whose friendship we need for our own safety?"

Police reported the accident occurred while Mr. Roberts was walking north on Main street near the Italy Dairy Co. store. While crossing the alley beside the store he was struck by a car driven by O. B. Morrison of 878 Woodrow avenue which was making a left turn from Main street into the alley, police were told.

Mr. Roberts, a stone mason, came here to set up a monument in the Marion cemetery.

REPORT NAZI ATTACK ON GREENLAND FAILS

Weather Bureau Venture Is Nipped by Norwegians.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A German-language broadcast by the British Broadcasting corporation today said a German expedition of 50 men had been captured in an unsuccessful attempt to seize the meteorological observation station at Greenland. The Norwegian patrol boat Fritjof Nansen made them prisoners, it said.

The broadcast was heard by CBS in New York.

(After Germany occupied Denmark, the mother country, the United States established a consular office there. The 736.518 mile-square island is in the western hemisphere.)

The broadcast, quoting a report from Stockholm, Sweden, said "for a long time the German air force has been experiencing the lack of exact weather forecasts, hindering successful air operations because Berlin did not get much support from the Danish and Norwegian personnel of the weather bureau at Greenland."

"Therefore it decided upon the capture of the wireless station in Greenland, or the erection of a station under German control."

An armed German expedition left Norway for Greenland, but was intercepted by the Fritjof Nansen when it reached the ice zone. The Germans are said to have offered no resistance."

By The Associated Press

HUGE BRITISH LINER LOST "BY ENEMY ACTION"

This is the first picture to reach the United States of the stricken Empress of Britain, 42,348-ton British liner, one of the 10 largest in the world, as she burned after "enemy action" set her afire 62 miles west of Ireland. Salvage operations were unsuccessful, British said she blew up and sank while in tow. Germans said a U-boat sank her 81 miles from the spot where she was originally attacked by bombing planes. It was estimated that 45 out of the 643 persons aboard were lost. The picture was sent via radio from London.

PICKETS CHARGE WPA WITH "TERRORIZATION"

Carrying signs and placards a group of 75, whose leaders said they were suspended WPA workers from New York City, saying they had been subjected to "systematic terrorization" aimed at controlling our votes and herding us en bloc into the Democratic camp.

PEDESTRIAN INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Man in Accident on Marion Street.

David Roberts, 68, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., suffered a fracture of the left collar bone yesterday when struck by an automobile at an alley intersection on South Main street, near Center street. Attendants at City hospital said his condition is not regarded as serious.

Police reported the accident occurred while Mr. Roberts was walking north on Main street near the Italy Dairy Co. store. While crossing the alley beside the store he was struck by a car driven by O. B. Morrison of 878 Woodrow avenue which was making a left turn from Main street into the alley, police were told.

Mr. Roberts, a stone mason, came here to set up a monument in the Marion cemetery.

MANSFIELD MACHINIST AWARDED HERO'S MEDAL

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—Bronze medals for heroic deeds went today to Orre E. Robison, 38, Mansfield machinist, and Brutus E. Johnson, 19, West Middletown civilian conservation corps member.

The Carnegie Hero Foundation honored Robison for rescuing Cora W. Martin, 50, and Gaylord W. Martin, 14, from a flaming automobile which had been wrecked near Mansfield on April 27. Robison was burned severely and disabled for four weeks.

Johnson while in camp at Mammoth Hot Springs, Wyo., exposed himself to deadly gas on June 28, 1939, in a futile effort to rescue a fellow worker from the bottom of a 27-foot test hole. Johnson was overcome by the gas, but survived.

association seek legislation enabling school boards to grant leaves of absence to employes on listing or drafted for military training.

The association elected Dale R. Rice, superintendent of Mentor schools, president. Other officers included Marjorie Nunn Campbell of Mansfield High school, recording secretary, and Paul C. Dunn, Lorain school superintendent, member of the Ohio Education association executive committee.

Dr. Abram Sucher, professor of history at the University of Illinois, told southwestern Ohio teachers meeting at Cincinnati that pupils should be taught that peace is the highest form of existence and that creativeness, not destruction, must be developed.

Platform Speeches
Two informal speeches from the rear platform of his special train today on the President's schedule were the first at Rochester, N. Y., in mid-morning, the second at Erie, Pa., in the late afternoon.

Pushing across upper New York state, a corner of Pennsylvania and into Ohio, Mr. Roosevelt was vying primarily for the 109 electoral votes of those pivotal states.

To a crowd which crammed the Academy of Music auditorium in Brooklyn last night, the Chief Executive asserted he was fighting "to keep this nation prosperous and at peace."

around his train at the Rochester, N. Y., station.

In an informal speech, Mr. Roosevelt reviewed what he termed a "fortunate record" established while he was chief executive of New York state and the nation.

He was the only governor to serve four years without calling out the national guard "to put down riots," he said, and in his 7½ years as President the army and navy "had ever been called out except in a cause of humanity."

"And so it seems to me," he said, "that a fellow with that kind of a record over a good many years must have his feet on the ground and I don't believe he has his finger on the trigger."

President Roosevelt told what he said was a story about the Republican national chairman in Washington who, he related, had said in a press conference—"off the record but with word to reporters to spread it around—that the President had ordered a portion of the fleet westward and that the day after election he would order all of it to the Philippines—an action that would be regarded by Japan as hostile."

That type of thing, he said, was "more dangerous to our international relations" than anything ever done by his administration.

Facing the President was a sign saying "labor wants Roosevelt because he represents all the people" and another declaring the A. F. of L. wants Roosevelt.

The President pitched into his last full day of campaigning today, contending that "something evil" is happening in America when "organizations which make no secret of their admiration for the dictatorship form of government" distribute "vast quantities of Republican campaign literature."

He rode into top-state New York, on the way to Cleveland for another major political address, after telling a Democratic rally in Brooklyn last night that an "unholy alliance" had been forming within the Republican party between "the extreme reactionary and the extreme radical elements of this country."

Each of those elements, Mr. Roosevelt said, seeks "dictatorial ends," and may bring a threat "to the future of democracy in this country."

"I am very certain," he declared, "that the rank and file of patriotic Republicans do not realize the nature of this threat."

"They should remember, and we must remember, what the collaborative understanding between Communism and Nazism has done to the processes of democracy abroad."

To a crowd which crammed the Academy of Music auditorium in Brooklyn last night, the Chief Executive asserted he was fighting "to keep this nation prosperous and at peace."

He contended that Republican

Leaders Had Spread "Class Hatred"

and had preached a doctrine of "fear" for the future of America. He questioned whether the principal contributors to Republican campaign funds had "the interests of the common man at heart" and commented "very few of us are so glib" as to believe that.

"Our program in the past, our program for the future," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is equality of economic opportunity."

After discussing what he termed the "unholy alliance," the President said "something evil is happening in this country when a full page advertisement against this administration, paid for by Republican supporters, appears—where of all places—in the Daily Worker, the newspaper of the Communist party."

(In New York, Fred Smith, director of publicity and advertising for the Republican state committee, said "no advertisement of any sort has been authorized in the Daily Worker by this committee nor by the national committee.")

Calls It True Sentiment
The "true" sentiment of the Republican leadership," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, was illustrated by a prominent Philadelphia lawyer, whom he did not name. He said the New York Times had quoted this lawyer as saying that the only Roosevelt supporters "are paupers, those who earn less than $1,200 a year and aren't worth that, and the Roosevelt family."

Asking whether Republican leaders could deny that "this all too prevailing Republican sentiment" was a "direct, vicious, unpatriotic appeal to class hatred, to class contempt," the president said he was fighting against just that with all his heart and soul.

For himself, the President added, he believed "that when Americans cross the dividing line of $100 a month, they do not lose their devotion to social and economic justice."

He said he was fighting "with all my heart and soul" against class hatred and continued:

"I am fighting for a free America for a country in which all men and women have equal rights to liberty and justice."

"I am fighting against the revival of government by special privilege—government by lobbyists—government vested in the hands of those who favor and who would have us imitate the foreign dictators."

"I am fighting, as I have always fought, for the rights of the little man as well as the big man, for the weak as well as the strong, for those who are helpless as well as for those who can help themselves."

"I am fighting to keep this nation prosperous and at peace. I am fighting to keep our people out of foreign wars, and to keep foreign conceptions of government out of our own United States."

"I am fighting for these great and good causes. I am fighting to defend them against the power and might of those who now rise up to challenge them."

Won't Stop Fighting
"And I shall not stop fighting," the opposition of the "Republican leadership" to administration measures, Mr. Roosevelt said, did not "necessarily" come from "wickedness" but was "an opposition which comes from subconscious resistance to any measure which disturbs the position of privilege."

"It is an unfortunate human failing," he added, "that a full pocketbook often groans more loudly than an empty stomach."

Declaring he was a "firm believer in private enterprise and in private property," Mr. Roosevelt said his objective also was equal economic opportunity for all.

He declared that "certain insurance companies" were now sending letters to their policyholders warning them "that if this administration is retained in office, their policies will shrink in value."

The fact was, Mr. Roosevelt added, that "the very existence of most of these insurance companies was saved in 1933 by this administration. They are today fully solvent."

Furthermore, he said, if any one needed proof of the soundness of government credit they needed only to look at the treasury of the Commonwealth & Southern System, where they would find "that they have bought and held $21,000,000 of U. S. government securities."

Accompanying Mr. Roosevelt on the train from Washington was William D. Hassett, assistant press secretary, substituting for Stephen Early, press secretary.

Also aboard were Harry L. Hopkins, former secretary of commerce, and Judge Samuel I. Rosenman of New York.

Willkie Attacks Class Hatred

record of continually unbalanced budgets and astronomical expenditures by citing the abnormally low interest rate at which some government notes recently were sold.

He called the argument shallow, saying New Deal policies "have so limited the opportunities for investment" in private enterprise that money has been driven "into the womb proof shelters of tax exempt government bonds."

Brands Statement False
Declaring the President "pretended" that his policies had aided small business men, Willkie said: "This is completely false. As a matter of fact, small business has suffered under the new deal far more than big business." He said treasury figures in 1937 "the best year we had under the New Deal"—listed profits for only 33 per cent of small corporations, whereas as 66 per cent of big corporations showed a profit.

Willkie ended his statement with these questions:

"1.—In the past seven and a half years the New Deal has spent more than $60 billion dollars and more than doubled the national debt. Tell us, Mr. Third Term Candidate, how long we can continue to pile up the national debt without bringing about bankruptcy or the chaos of inflation?"

"2.—There are more than nine million men unemployed when the third term candidate ran for his second term. Mr. third-term candidate, tell the American people how it is that we have made no net gains in employment under your latest administration? What is your program for providing our unemployed jobs, do you subscribe to the statement of your campaign manager that there can never be jobs in private industry for all our people?"

"3.—Mr. Third Term Candidate, tell the American people what argument you have that has not already been advanced by the dictators of Europe as a pretext for continued power for offering yourself to the American people as an indispensable man?"

"4.—Mr. Third Term Candidate, the campaign of 1932 is eight years behind us. When will you begin to discuss the issues of the campaign of 1930?"

In his prepared address, he said, that airplane manufacturers were "doing an amazing job" in trying to increase production.

But, he added, "we should stop fooling ourselves with talk about rapidly reaching a goal of 50,000 planes annually."

President Roosevelt, the candidate asserted, had said with "deceptive optimism" that the nation was making "rapid progress toward the production of 50,000 aircraft a year."

"Anybody who knows anything about production," Willkie continued, "will understand that after years of neglect and abuse of industry by the New Deal that goal cannot be reached short of a period of years."

When Mr. Roosevelt talks about supplying 26,000 planes to Great Britain, he said, "let's not fool ourselves about that, either."

Defense On Order
"And the tragedy of it is that a little foresight, a little understanding of the facts of industrial production could have made it possible for American industry and American workers to pour out today a stream of airplanes for Britain that would assure her safety against any Nazi invasion."

"And American industry—workers and managers together—would be turning out a stream of airplanes for America to make our land impregnable."

"Once again the third-term candidate has given us a speech about defenses that are not on hand, but just on order."

The nominee spent most of the afternoon resting aboard his private car and strolling through breezy grass in the chilly autumn haze.

His speech tonight, completed during the day, said Mr. Roosevelt, finally had come to the conclusion that "production is the foundation of national defense," but had had "come to it fearfully late."

The President, he charged, had retarded the aircraft industry by canceling air mail contracts in 1934 and had failed to fill the offices of assistant secretary of the war and navy departments.

The President, Willkie argued, had "purposely" guided his decision.

"He saved a few thousand dollars a year at the expense of aviation," Willkie continued, "since that time he has spent more than $60,000,000. Those thousands saved in relation to $60,000,000 spent look like a trifle in a path to the moon."

Asks a Question
Willkie said he would like to ask Mr. Roosevelt what he ever done to encourage expansion of aircraft factories and cleared that until the last month, major plants had "starved for orders."

Willkie, discussing the administration's cancellation of air contracts, said that before contracts were restored "our aviation industry had been given black eye by a smearing investigation by Senator Hugo Black who was later elevated to supreme court."

Then, adding to his prep text, Willkie said that Black had been appointed a justice "for reason understandable to a body."

The Republican nominee carried through the evening. Chairman Joseph Martin Jr., the Republican national committee and Samuel F. Pryor, campaign manager. Both rep to Willkie that there was a "big tide" in his favor.

SCENE FROM "THE WESTERNER" AT PALACE

Gary Cooper looks on while Walter Brennan, as Judge Roy Bean, meets Lillian Bond, above, in a scene from "The Westerner," featured at the Palace theater tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

"The Westerner" Starring Gary Cooper, at Palace

Story of 1880's To Be Shown Through Tuesday; Farce Comedy Booked for End of Week.

"The Westerner," a colorful and adventure-filled picture of the Old West with Gary Cooper in the title role, will begin a three-day showing at the Palace theater tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

Heralded by critics as an outstanding example of an exciting Western story filmed in extravaganza style, "The Westerner" has an excellent cast including Walter Brennan, Fred Stone, Doris Davenport and Lillian Bond in addition to Cooper.

The setting is a small Texas town in the roaring '80s when there was raging a long and bitter battle between the cattlemen and the homesteaders. Just when this battle is reaching a peak, the Westerner, a roving cowboy, drifts into town and finds himself entangled in vicious political and lawless controversies. But the Westerner proves to be too shrewd for wily opponents.

Fights for Homesteaders

Discovering that the cattlemen are plotting to drive out the homesteaders, the Westerner takes up the fight against the cattlemen and outplays them at their own game.

Showing Wednesday only is "Melody in the Moonlight," a combination of comedy, romance and melody. Johnny Downs, Vera Vague and Jerry Colonna have the leading roles.

Booked for the end of the week, Thursday through Saturday, is "The Boys from Syracuse," starring a top-notch cast including Alan Jones, Joe Penner and Martha Raye.

Farce Comedy

A farce comedy set in ancient Greece, the film deals with domestic mix-ups involving two sets of twins and three Grecian girls. The two sets of twins are played by Allan Jones and Joe Penner. There are numerous mix-ups and complexities, but whenever the problems become too difficult to solve immediately the Greeks just nonchalantly turn to modern swing and let the situations untangle themselves.

Grant-Dunne Film on Double Feature Program at State

"My Favorite Wife," a fast-paced comedy co-starring Gary Grant and Irene Dunne, will be given second-run showings Sunday and Monday at the State.

The double bill will be a Roy Rogers western, "Young Buffalo Bill." Miss Dunne, cast as Grant's wife, disappears in a shipwreck in the South Seas and after seven years Grant has her declared legally dead and marries Gail Patrick. However, Miss Dunne is very much alive and she and her rescuer, Raymond Scott, arrive home on the night her husband embarks on his second honeymoon.

George Sanders and Shirley Grey are featured in a mystery film, "The Saint in London," and Charles Starrett is starred in "Outpost of the Moonties," both booked for Tuesday and Wednesday.

The feature films the last three days of the week will be "Fugitive at Large," starring Jack Holt, and a Gene Autry musical western, "Public Cowboy No. 1."

An automatic warning is sounded by a new device that measures emanations from stored radium when they reach an unsafe limit.

Double clothes lines for indoor use have been invented with slides to hold garments between the lines without requiring pins.

Mystery On Marion Bill

Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard Co-starred in Film on Double Program.

"Ghost Breakers," the exciting mystery thriller starring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard, will return to Marion for a second showing tomorrow and Monday at the Marion theater. The picture is scary enough to frighten even the most naive movie-goers but there also is an abundance of comedy and romance.

Rounding out the double-feature bill is "Heritage of the Desert," an action-packed western thriller.

"Edison, The Man," which together with the film "Edison, The Boy," makes up an authoritative and highly entertaining picture account of the life of the famous inventor, will be featured on the Marion theater bill Tuesday and Wednesday. Spencer Tracy plays the role of Edison.

Sharing the program with the Edison picture is another lengthy feature, "The Secret Seven," starring Florence Rice and Barton MacLane.

The double-feature bill Thursday through Saturday consists of "Who Killed Aunt Maggie?" starring John Hubbard and Wendy Barrie, and "Riders of the Pasco Basin," starring Bob Baker and Fuzzy Knight.

HOG PRICES FIRM AS RECEIPTS SHOW GAIN

October Makes 52 Per Cent Gain Over September.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Although total receipts of hogs here during October increased 52 per cent over the previous month, as against a mere 1/2 of 1 per cent gain in September over August, prices showed only slight losses compared with the previous month when average daily cost fell about 80 cents and top prices $1.20.

Traders felt quite satisfied that prices were maintained so well in the face of the heaviest receipts for the month since 1934. Receipts climbed from 209,983 in September to 471,836 in October. August receipts totaled 308,313. A high percentage of arrivals in the past month went direct to packing plants, though this is a seasonal development and was no greater than a year ago. However, it often acted as a drag on the market, especially in the last week of trading when salable receipts also were very heavy.

Daily average cost dropped from $6.95 at the close of August to $6.17 at the close of September but only to about $6.02 at the close of October. Top prices fell from a peak of $7.75 at the end of August to $6.55 at the end of September but only declined 50 cents by the end of the past month.

October might have shown a gain in daily average cost had it not been that excessive loadings and continued weakness in the dressed market depressed prices considerably during the last five or six sessions of the month, dragging cost down to $6.01. Otherwise average cost has fluctuated within a narrow range, never climbing above $6.51 or slipping below $6.17, the average price at which the previous month closed.

Best pork joints in the wholesale market dropped only 4 cents a pound in October, compared with 8 cents in the previous month. At the end of August they brought a peak price of 23 cents, compared with 13 cents yesterday.

Government agents ascribed the sharp break in prices of loins as well as top hogs to the reaction of consumers to what they believed were excessively high prices at the end of August.

New Star In Film at Ohio

Carmen Miranda Featured in "Down Argentine Way." Booked for Week.

"Down Argentine Way," boasting eight song hits, a whirlwind romance and a new star, Carmen Miranda, opened at the Ohio theater yesterday for a seven-day engagement.

Co-starred with Miss Miranda are Don Ameche and Betty Grable who turn in excellent performances in comedy roles. Miss Miranda, sultry South American songstress, has four vocal numbers and sets a gay tempo for the picture with her Argentine dance routines.

Ameche plays the role of the dashing selen of a wealthy South American family and its one of the merriest, most entertaining characters Ameche has ever played. South American dancing and singing provide a colorful background for his romance with Betty Grable.

Unlike most of Hollywood's musical extravaganzas most of the scenes of "Down Argentine Way" were filmed far from the movie capital. A special production crew was sent to Buenos Aires to obtain atmospheric shots and the scenes in which Miss Miranda appears were filmed in New York where the "Brazilian Bombshell" has been starring in the Broadway production "The Streets of Paris."

Starting next Friday the Ohio program will feature "Knute Rockne—All American," a portrayal of the life of Notre Dame's immortal gridiron mentor in which Pat O'Brien is cast as Rockne. The movie has been booked for seven days.

Captain's Letter Tells of Life at Army Camp

2nd Infantry of Marion, Ohio, has been assigned to duty at Camp Shelby, Miss., with Capt. Taylor as officer in charge. According to a letter received from Capt. Hubert Taylor, commanding officer of the company, the company arrived at Camp Shelby on Monday, Nov. 1, and after a short stay, the company moved to the permanent camp. weapons school at camp this week and Sgt. Lawrence Edington is attending signal school. Private First Class Merle Melvin has been detailed as orderly to chaplain, Major F. C. Randolph, who is in charge of the post office. Co. D and Headquarters Detachment of Marion arrived at Camp Shelby, Miss., a week ago today at 2:30 p. m., detouring an hour ahead of schedule, according to the letter. The units marched a mile and a half to Camp Shelby and were met at the edge of the regimental area by the regimental band. "Spirits were lifted considerably as they swung out behind a real marching band on the remainder of the march to the company street," Capt. Taylor wrote.

Describes Camp
Following is Captain Taylor's description of the camp:
"The camp is at present a temporary tent camp. The company street consists of a wooden mess hall and tables, 17 pyramidal tents with wood floors and electric lights.

"Upon arrival at the company street the first task was to draw canvas cots, new mattresses and blankets. The canvas cots have since been exchanged for steel cots, which will be taken along when the company moves into the permanent camp.

The permanent camp is rapidly nearing completion. Twelve thousand civilian employees are working 24 hours a day leveling ground, paving roads and building mess halls and barracks. The mess halls are fine large buildings with coal ranges and a seating capacity of 175 men. The barracks are tent type with wooden floors, four-foot wooden walls, three-foot screened openings and permanent canvas tops.

"A typical day's schedule here at Camp Shelby is as follows: reveille, 5:40 a. m.; mess, 6:15; fatigue, 6:30; drill, 7; mess, 12 noon; drill, 1 p. m.; retreat, 5:35; mess, 6; call to quarters, 9:30; taps, 10."

The men can leave the camp after retreat, providing they register out and in and state where they are going, according to Captain Taylor.

Co. D Has Mascot
A news report today from Hattiesburg stated that Co. D now has a mascot, a 12-year-old dog named "Slater," the property of Mess Sergeant Charles W. Dixon.

Religious services for the 37th Ohio Division, of which Marion units are a part, are as much a part of the camp schedule as is the drilling of troops, according to a report today from the division public relations officer.

Each Sunday 15 services are held in the area and on Saturdays confessions of the Catholic men are heard. The nine regimental bands furnish appropriate music for the services. Rev. William P. O'Connor of Dayton is senior chaplain.

GOOD AND BAD DAYS AHEAD FOR FARMERS

Experts Look Into Future in Regard to Ohio.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Government researchers see both good and bad conditions ahead for the dairy farmer in Ohio.

They say, however, that favorable trends probably will offset most threats to income, barring unusually depressed prices.

Increased dairy production in other sections of the country, the report said, constituted a threat to dairy farm income in Great Lakes states such as Ohio.

"One means of meeting such a threat," the report concluded, "would be to feed less concentrated feed and relatively more roughage and pasture. Such an adjustment would utilize more effectively the natural competitive advantages of the area, but the shift should soon be accompanied by a definite increase in the quality of the roughage to prevent losses in milk production."

"Conservation programs emphasizing the use of lime and fertilizer to build up legumes and pastures may assist materially in adjustment to increased competition."

The report observed that Ohio was well suited for fruit and vegetable productions and probably would benefit from developments in frozen packing.

NEWARK CASE GRANTED SUPREME COURT REVIEW
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. — Virginia Vandemark, Newark, Ohio, employee of the Owens-Illinois glass company, today was granted a supreme court review of a decision dismissing her suit against the company as a result of the contraction of silicosis.

The company contended that under Ohio law in 1937 when suit was filed, an employee could not recover damages as a result of an occupational disease. The company further contended that the employee brought suit in the federal district court in Ohio to escape the application of state law.

I prepared the pleadings and papers which won the above VICTORY in the UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT last Monday.

THE RESULT
The OHIO SUPREME COURT and LEGISLATURE adopted in 1939 the position I had taken for approximately 6 years in both STATE and FEDERAL COURTS in the occupational disease cases. Both LABOR and the TAXPAYING PUBLIC benefited.

My CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM for our Common Pleas Court is:

- (1) PROMPT BUT CONSIDERATE ACTION on all motions, pleadings and trials.
- (2) TO REFUSE to rule, hear, adjudicate or decide any case where I have or may have a personal, financial or pecuniary interest.
- (3) WRITTEN DECISIONS in addition to journal entries.
- (4) ACTUAL SIGNING of all journal entries.
- (5) OFFICE OPEN regularly, at appropriate hours for convenient service to attorneys and all other people.

I HAVE NEVER HELD ANY PUBLIC OFFICE.
Your VOTE and HELP will be sincerely appreciated.
